'MOST BALMY' HONOR WON BY CITY AGAIN

Warmest place in Canada for the Christmas holiday?
Victoria, of course.
The temperature here on Christmas Day hit a high of 45 while on Boxing Day the maximum was 49.
The rest of Canada froze. On the Prairies temperatures were in the low thirties—below—and in the east Toronto had a high of only six degrees above freezing.

STRIKERS MARCH IN BRUSSELS

Parade of strikers, led by Socialist leaders, winds along one of Brussels' main streets as the Belgian work week stoppage enters its second week. Overhead Christmas decorations, normally lit at night, have been darkened by strike restrictions. Labor walkout was called by Socialist unions in protest against proposed government austerity measures to offset economic loss resulting from the Congo.

THIRD TEST EXPLODED IN SAHARA

France Step Nearer Huge Nuclear Weapon

PARIS (AP)—France today successfully staged its third nuclear test, exploding a small device that officials hope will clear the way for both tactical and giant thermonuclear weapons.

French scientists also sought to gain information about protection of persons from the effects of radioactive fallout.

The third test, which came about 10 months after the first, was fired at Reggane, deep in the Sahara, from atop a tower. French officials said that the device was of several kilotons in power. A kiloton is equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT.

The first atomic bombs, made by the United States in the Second World War, were of about 20 kilotons. The first French bomb tested Feb. 13, had 70 kilotons power and the second, set off April 1, was described as considerably smaller.

Calling today's test a success, the defence ministry said the device was of small strength. Officials said the fallout presented no danger to nomads in the desert.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Thy Mercy, O Lord, endureth forever. Let not our anxious fears cloud our vision of Thy goodness, nor let our sins overpower us. Forgive our abuse of Thy great gifts, and save us from our folly. For Thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

RADIOACTIVITY WEAK

Testing points reported that radioactive fallout was noted in an area about 60 miles long and 15 miles wide extending southwestward from the firing range.

With the findings from the test, French scientists hope to perfect small operational tactical bombs and detonating devices for thermonuclear or hydrogen bombs.

The French said many small animals—most of them mice or rats—were placed in the

Revenge Vow By Selassie

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia indicated Monday that five persons arrested as leaders of the brief revolt against him will be executed following trial.

The emperor told a joint session of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies the rebels had been "hunted like wild animals and their blood shed in many places."

"God has taken revenge on these traitors in this manner, and he will take yet more revenge," the emperor added.

The government claims its forces have killed the other five men listed as leaders of the coup.

Parliament adopted a resolution reaffirming "full confidence" in the emperor's government.

King May Cut Honeymoon

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A crowd of anti-government demonstrators clashed with police today and marched through the centre of Brussels in noisy support of a Socialist-led general strike that crippled Belgium for the seventh straight day.

Socialist party sources estimated that 600,000 persons were on strike.

(In Seville, Spain, it was reported that King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola may cut short their Spanish honeymoon and fly back to Brussels Thursday in an attempt to deal with the worsening strike situation.)

Heavy police forces moved in quickly to break up a demonstration of Socialist strikes outside party headquarters.

After the scuffle with police, several hundred demonstrators marched through the downtown area, snarling traffic and tossing firecrackers under police horses. Police made no move to break up the parade, but shopkeepers quickly clanged down their steel shutters to guard against any outburst of violence.

Elsewhere in Belgium, strikers clashed with police today at Dalzienne, near Namur, and one policeman was reported injured.

The walkout was called by Socialist unions to protest the austerity program put forth by the government of Catholic Socialist Christian Premier Gaston Eyskens to offset losses suffered by Belgium as a result of the Congo crisis.

All Key Public Services Crippled

It has crippled transport, utility, postal and other key public services throughout the nation.

Some 400 Socialist mayors in the French-speaking Walloon region of the country were reported to have rejected instructions by the interior ministry to report all municipal employees who have joined the strike.

The mayors (burgomasters) issued communiques scornfully denouncing the interior ministry orders as forcing them into "degrading" denunciations of their municipal staffs.

The Social Christian Party

Police dispersed a strike mob that was blocking traffic outside Socialist headquarters after a brief scuffle that produced no reported casualties.

The strikers shouted "Down with (Premier Gaston) Eyskens!" and other anti-government slogans as the police cleared the street.

Earlier, the strikers had manhandled the conductor of a streetcar that tried to pass their roadblock and pulled its trolley off the overhead power wire.

The government has called out regular troops and reservists in an effort to maintain essential services during the strike, which was called to protest the "austerity" program devised by the government to offset the nation's loss of revenues from the Congo.

Times Fund for USC Nears $8,000 Mark

The Times "Children of India" Christmas appeal will close Wednesday.

With the fund now well past the $7,000 mark, it is hoped that by New Year's Eve a sum in excess of $8,000 may be transferred to the Unitarian Services Committee in Ottawa for inclusion in their 1960 budget.

Due to the holiday break, acknowledgment lists have not been completed. They will be brought up to date in Wednesday's paper, with a final list on Thursday.

Last-minute donations will be accepted either by hand at the Broad Street and Douglas Street offices, or in the mail.

In a special Christmas message, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of the USC, expressed her thanks to Victorians.

"Once again I thank you for your wonderful response to this appeal," she said. "It will be my duty now to see this money is spent where it will do the most good in helping

PRINCESS BAHAMAS REGENT?

LONDON (CP)—The Associated Press reported today that a close friend of the Royal Family said the Queen is considering appointing Princess Margaret governor of the Bahamas.

"Friends of the Royal Family say the Queen has been feeling out government and private individuals on the Bahamas appointment," the AP said. "No opposition has been reported and some highly placed persons are said to be enthusiastically in favor of the appointment."

These friends noted that Anthony Armstrong-Jones has been out of work for the last seven months since his marriage to Margaret.

The appointment of a member of the Royal Family as a governor-general would not set a precedent. The Duke of Windsor was governor of the Bahamas from 1940 to 1945.

AIRLINES ACCUSED

Deadly Fuel 'Hushed Up'

2 IN B.C.

The new fuel is called JP-4 and is a mixture of gasoline and kerosene. It is used by a growing number of airlines whose jet airliners formerly used the less-explosive kerosene.

Brabazon, 76-year-old chairman of the British Air Registration Board, who was decorated by Queen Elizabeth in 1953 for his service to civil aviation, said:

"It is patently clear that the desire to use JP-4 is based on money making."

He made the charge in a letter to Sir William Hildred, director-general of the International Air Transport Association which represents the major airlines.

Brabazon also made public an earlier letter from Hildred accusing him of putting dangerous statements before "emotional millions."

The argument started with a recent television program in which Brabazon made experiments to demonstrate that JP-4 ignites instantly while kerosene

During the three-day Christmas holiday last year, 81 persons died accidentally, 65 in traffic mishaps.

B.C. had two deaths, both on Vancouver Island. (See stories page 13.)

FISHERMEN ADRIFT FOR 69 DAYS

'All We Did Was Pray and Bail'

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters)—Five of the luckiest fishermen in the world told today how they drifted on the South China Sea for 69 lonely, hungry days in a leaking boat that sank shortly after their rescue.

The five Formosans, rescued December 1 by Vietnamese fishermen, lost one of their party, 16-year-old Tsu Suan Chuey.

Shie-Fu Chien, 69, said the boat's engine broke down on September 23.

"We could not use the sail because of a stiff wind against us, so we were driven off Taiwan Island (Formosa)."

"Then a typhoon hit us and the rough sea damaged our boat. She had a pretty big hole at the bottom and we took turns bailing the water out."

"During our 69 days on the sea, we saw only one ship, a freighter. But since the freighter seemed not to notice us we jumped into the sea and swam toward her about half a mile away. It was in vain. We couldn't move fast enough to cross her course."

"So, we swam back to our boat. It was then that our friend Tsu became exhausted and drowned."

"The rest of us could do nothing but pray—and bail."

Shie said that during the last 20 days at sea, "we were short of food, provisions and firewood."

"We ate the fish we caught and seaweed," he said. "We collected rainwater."

Chen Pi, 37, said that by December 1 "our boat was three-quarters full of water—it was hopeless."

"Suddenly," he added, "we saw about 20 sailing boats coming in our direction. We said 'By a miracle, God has saved us.'"

"One of us climbed to the top of the mast and all of us started yelling. Finally, one fishing boat came to us and we were rescued by the Vietnamese fishermen."

"Our boat slowly disappeared in the sea."

PARIS — "She can't do that to us," says French manhood, and Frenchmen don't think she will.

That's the male reaction here to Brigitte Bardot's announcement last week that she is going to quit the movies in 1962 and retire on her not inconsiderable earnings. Her only reason was that she's tired of it all or, in the French equivalent, she's had it.

Movie man as well as the French man in the street are disbelieving.

Jack Wiener, Columbia's European publicity manager who has been associated with Bardot ever since her "And God Created Woman" made her an international star, said "I can't believe it."

"I am sure she will change her mind," he said. After all she has changed her mind before. After her tremendous success in her last movie "La Verite" (The Truth) which critics in Sweden praised as displaying her as a new Greta Garbo she can't give up.

From the Paris concierges, most typical Paris men in the street, the reaction is simply "she can't do that to us." They explain that in spite of her tumultuous private life "she is a good girl," and they like to see her in movies where she undresses and even in the others where she acts.

Take it from the concierges: "she can't quit."

ALBION, N.Y. — William Smith, 91, and Mrs. Gertrude Smith, 91, were married Christmas Eve at the county infirmary, where both are patients. It was the second marriage for both.

BERLIN — A female voice has been raised in Communist East Germany to assert that it's not true what they say in the Communist love stories—that girls give up boy when he doesn't volunteer for extra work.

Elsie Rothe, apparently a loyal Communist from Zernsdorf, south of Berlin, wrote to a Communist newspaper in Potsdam:

"Why don't we also have entertaining love stories? Love has its problems under socialism, too, and it's just not so— as many quite 'progressive' authors try to convince us—that the girl will leave her best boy friend because he doesn't volunteer for a 'socialist brigade'."

PASADENA — An astronomer reported today that he has discovered the strongest magnet field ever found in nature—one that is 31,000 times stronger than that of earth.

The find was made by Dr. Horace Babcock, assistant director of the Mount Palomar Observatory, with the 200-inch telescope at the observatory. The magnetic field surrounds a star which is a neighbor of our solar system in the milky way galaxy. It has no name but is known to astronomers as HD 215-441.

JET FUEL

"I cannot follow why the truth about the behavior of the two fuels should not be known."

Brabazon published the correspondence with Hildred in The Listener, weekly organ of the BBC.

The argument was highly topical after a crash landing of a Boeing 707 jet at London airport Saturday. The plane, arriving from Chicago, was using kerosene and did not catch fire. All 107 people aboard escaped unhurt.

Airline spokesman here said JP-4 had been adopted only after most stringent tests. One said it was technically a better fuel in that it gave more power and had a lower freezing point than kerosene.

A-BOMB TEST

Some of the animals had been injected, with substances that might furnish protection against radioactivity, officials said. Other animals had been put in a state of hibernation to study how they reacted to radioactivity in that condition.

A statement by French atomic scientist Pierre Billaud indicated the third device was something close to being a usable atomic bomb.

The first foreign comment came from Moscow. The official Soviet news agency Tass charged that by exploding another atomic "bomb" France was "continuing along the road of the atomic arms race which is one of the obstacles to reaching a disarmament agreement."

The French did not issue the usual 12-hour warning to airlines to reroute their African

Legal Action Threatened After Dog 'Lost' at Pound

Appearance of a dog from a pound may result in a lawsuit against the municipality.

Robert W. Saunders, 3855 Tillicum, said Saturday he has engaged a lawyer because he has not been able to discover what happened to his German short-haired pointer.

The dog was picked up by pound authorities about three weeks ago but Mr. Saunders said he could not find out whether it had been destroyed or sent somewhere else.

The day the dog disappeared, Mr. Saunders said, he telephoned the pound and was told his pet was there and he could pick it up any afternoon.

But each time he went to the pound in the next few days, there was nobody there. Finally, he found an attendant and was informed the dog was no longer in the pound.

Mr. Saunders said he still doesn't know what became of the dog.

"The way they run the pound, it's not fit for a pig to be in there," he said. "I've seen Bay."

Mr. Saunders said he was angry enough to move out of the municipality.

1960 'UNHAPPY YEAR' QUEEN TELLS SUBJECTS

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth called on the Commonwealth on Christmas Day for a determined effort to "halt and reverse a growing tendency toward violence and disintegration."

The 34-year-old Queen declared in a Christmas message pre-recorded for radio and television that 1960 was "by no stretch of the imagination" a happy or successful year for mankind.

"Arguments and strained relations as well as natural disasters have all helped to produce an atmosphere of tension and uncertainty all over the world," she said.

Her message was televised and broadcast by radio throughout the world, including Canada, on Christmas Day. It got the greatest "same day" coverage by TV and radio of any event in history.

Versions of the 500-word message were sent not only throughout the Commonwealth for broadcast at noon local time Christmas Day, but throughout the West and into the Communist world.

A technical hitch robbed British TV viewers of her first few words. The Queen mouthed inaudibly through half of her opening sentence. Then the sound suddenly snapped on.

The Queen watched the telecast from her country home at Sandringham, in Norfolk county, where she spent Christmas Day with most of the Royal family.

MOSLEMS RIOT IN ORAN

De Gaulle Meets Two-Way Attack

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's plan for ending the bloody Algerian war was attacked by two leading politicians Monday night as Moslem rioting continued in Oran, Algeria's second largest city.

Conservative leader Roger Duchet and radical Felix Gaillard, a Fourth Republic premier, used the state radio and television network to condemn de Gaulle's self-determination plan.

Both said the voters should be guided by their consciences in the Jan. 8 referendum. It will approve or reject de Gaulle's proposal for speedy self-government in Algeria, with the Moslem majority taking a much bigger part, and a referendum in the North African territory after peace.

CLASH INTERMITTENTLY

Moslems, European settlers and police clashed intermittently throughout the day in Oran. Officials said the casualties were one Frenchman killed, five French wounded and two Moslems wounded.

Threatening groups of Moslems formed in several sections of Oran at midnight, despite a military curfew.

Red Summit Meeting 'Rotten Compromise'

PRESIDENT TITO
... furious forensics

2 Freighters In Collision

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—

Two big freighters, one carrying passengers, collided in a heavy fog off the Texas coast Monday and two U.S. coast guard cutters rescued the passengers and aided the stricken ships.

There were no deaths or injuries reported. The Fernmoor, a Norwegian ship, and the Tharros, a Greek ship, collided 12 miles off Galveston Island in the Gulf of Mexico. Both ships were bound for Houston.

The Tharros limped into Galveston Bay under her own power, but with a damaged bow.

SEAMAN RIDES BROKEN SHIP BACK INTO PORT

NEWPORT NEWS, VA. (UPI)—The broken stern section of the tanker Pine Ridge limped into port today, its flag drooping at half-mast in memory of the seven crewmen lost when the ship broke in two.

John Richard, the veteran seaman who rode the hobbing stern section on the slow-rough trip back to port, was immediately whisked off in a pink, chauffeur-driven limousine.

The Pine Ridge broke in two during a storm last Wednesday about 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras, N.C. The captain and six crewmen were lost when the bow went under but 29 crewmen aboard the stern were saved when the rear section stayed afloat.

BELGRADE (Reuters)—President Tito in a blistering attack on Communist China Monday castigated the recent Communist "summit" meeting in Moscow as resulting in a "rotten compromise."

More than 500 wildly applauding delegates heard Tito lash out at the statement issued after last month's Moscow parley by Communist party leaders from 81 countries.

The Moscow statement charged Yugoslavia with "international opportunism" and "revisionism" for following a policy of independent communism. The meeting apparently

Attempt to Isolate Yugoslavia

He did not mention the Soviet Union, but asked: "Do Socialist morals permit that, by means of false accusations, a rotten compromise is made at the expense of a small socialist country, Yugoslavia?"

Tito used the opportunity of introducing a new five-year plan to make a wide-ranging statement on his country's international position. It was his first address to the assembly in more than 2½ years.

Tito said the Moscow statement was a deliberate attempt to destroy the unity between other Communist states and Yugoslavia, but said the attempt would fail.

The statement's "inaccuracies and slanders" would not harm Yugoslavia but only those who fabricated them and the international worker movement in general, he said.

Yugoslavia would answer every attempt to spread "unjustified slander against us," Tito said.

Tito said Yugoslavia had "identical views" with other socialist countries on most imported international problems, including the total liquidation of colonialism and complete disarmament.

He claimed Yugoslavia's economic relations with the United States were becoming "increasingly realistic."

Less Work, Less Wealth

THE SUPREME ECONOMIC necessity in Canada, as in all countries, is to produce more goods at the lowest possible price. No goods are produced, of course, without human labor, even in this age of machines.

But at the very moment when Canada is suffering from the competition of foreign producers it appears that Canadians are working less than their chief competitors. Indeed, the latest figures indicate that Canadians work fewer hours than any people in the industrialized Western world.

The International Labor Office, a reliable authority, sets down the number of hours worked per year by the average worker in six major Western nations in this table:

Switzerland	2,416
West Germany	2,296
Sweden	2,212
United Kingdom	2,192
United States	1,984
Canada	1,928

Canada stands at the bottom of the list. If the figures represented the rate of unemployment, or the rate of international trade deficits, Canada would stand at the head of the list.

The Church Fights Apartheid

ELEVEN LEADERS OF SOUTH Africa's three Dutch Reformed churches have searched their souls and found nothing to justify apartheid.

This, it seems, marks the parting of the ways between the spiritual leaders and Nationalist Party which forms the government in the country.

Until the announced decision of the leaders—presumably reflecting the consensus of studies by 350 ministers of Afrikaans churches since the Sharpeville riot—the Dutch Reformed Church had raised no official voice against apartheid. Now it has.

The significance of the decision is greater than the reflection of a schism between a religious denomination and the national Government. It creates a breach which reaches into the Nationalist Party itself if distinguished members of the party are to honor the religious convictions they have professed.

Many members of the Verwoerd cabinet are adherents of the church. Johannes Strijdom, Dr. Verwoerd's predecessor, who intensified the apartheid campaign, was a life-long member. Before him, Dr. Malan, also a prime minister, was for many years a pastor of the church.

Now the leaders of that religious persuasion have declared their belief that apartheid is wrong, that the policy is without spiritual foundation and cannot be justified by the Bible. They declare that some other method must be found to cure South Africa's ills and if the Government will not, or cannot, find it, "then the church itself must under-

Does anyone suppose that Canadians can meet the competition of other nations, in foreign and domestic markets alike, by working less than their competitors?

To be sure, this would be possible if our productivity, or output per man-hour, were rising faster than that of our competitors, but it is not. On the contrary, our productivity is falling. Premier Frost, of Ontario, recently pointed out that per capita production in Canada had increased 14 per cent between 1948 and 1952 and since then has been steadily declining.

In short, we are working fewer hours per year than any major Western nation, reducing the output of our total labor force per man and wondering why we have the largest per capita trading deficit in the world.

We are trying to enjoy more wealth with less effort, we are talking about a further reduction in working hours but with all our modern machinery we are bound to fail. In our present position we can afford this kind of economic lunacy even less than other nations who, working harder, compete with us everywhere, including the Canadian market.

take to do what the state will not do; that is, through mutual discussion to seek a better way" of reconciling whites and non-whites.

The decision assumes particular importance at this time as South Africa contemplates the stand reached last week by the World Council of Churches in Johannesburg.

At that meeting seven Protestant churches, including two of the biggest Dutch Reformed groups, backed principles running directly counter to the Nationalist apartheid policy.

The development of this rift between those who press apartheid and those religious groups which have hitherto condoned it, may be expected to effect a significant change in South African political life. That, in turn, could explain the attitude adopted the other day by spokesmen for Britain in respect to Commonwealth membership. They said that Britain would throw the full weight it commands in Commonwealth councils into a determined effort to keep South Africa within the family.

The implication here is clear. South Africa, in the opinion of these Government spokesmen, should be retained as a member not because of its present attitudes, but because the winds of change are blowing even there and in time may be expected to sweep away the racial discrimination which is anathema to democratic processes and completely unacceptable to the non-white members of the Commonwealth.

This seems to be an optimistic long-range view. Is it too much to hope for?

A Hopeful Note

RUSSIA HAS CHOSEN TO IMPROVE the year-end international atmosphere with a note of hope. The U.S.S.R. is favorable to a summit meeting with the United States after Mr. Kennedy's installation, with a view to improving relations.

This is not a new proposal. As long ago as the Paris summit fiasco Mr. Khrushchev asserted hotly that he would not do business with Mr. Eisenhower but would be willing to negotiate with his successor. He has indicated similar sentiments at various times since, even expressing a hope that relations between the two countries might become similar to those prevailing when President Roosevelt was at the helm in Washington.

Those, however, were war days, when Russia and the United States faced a common enemy. Today they are on opposite sides of the fence. There is promise, however, in Mr. Gromyko's official statement that the Soviet Government is ready "to promote the all-round betterment of Soviet-American relations." Mr. Kennedy, we may be sure, is of a similar mind.

Beyond this point little can be said with conviction. Too many summits have been climbed without appreciable or lasting effect. The fact is that if both sides were determined to achieve a lasting settlement it could be done in a number of different ways. There is no magic in a summit, only opportunity. And that opportunity has been missed enough times to make the public chary of slogans.

The invitation, however, is out. When Mr. Kennedy has taken office and spent perhaps several months in establishing his Government and his policies, there will be time to think of acceptance. Mr. Khrushchev's behavior at the recent 99-member "summit" of the United Nations Assembly must be considered with the latest announcement.

Au Revoir, But Not Good-Bye

BASING ITS COMMENT ON the first news out of Addis Ababa after the rebels had struck, the Toronto Star paid touching editorial tribute to Haile Selassie.

The newspaper recaptured the vision of him standing before the League of Nations, when his country was victim of Mussolini's rape, calling for support in his fight for international morality.

It noted the façade of democracy which Ethiopia had built over its prevailing feudalism when the Conquering Lion of Judah returned in triumph. Such feudalism, it said, could not endure. Haile Selassie had failed.

"Good-bye, little emperor," the editorial closed.

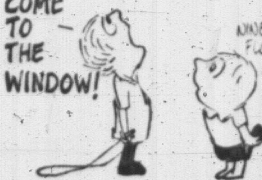

But the editorial writer had apparently not reckoned with the enduring qualities of the King of Kings—nor, it seems, with the durability of some types of feudalism.

The Toronto Star must now add a footnote: "Sing au revoir, but not good-bye."

FROM WASHINGTON

He'll Find Himself Under Continual and Special Scrutiny

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WITH Mr. Kennedy's Cabinet completed, the most-debatable choice is that of Robert Kennedy. In many ways, however, the most significant is that of Douglas Dillon. It has been said by the "New York Times" that Mr. Robert Kennedy would "certainly not be named for Attorney-General if he were not the President's brother." In my view, the fact that he is the brother cannot have been the decisive reason. Moreover, it is not really important. Robert Kennedy could not have been named just because he is the brother. In the main he was named because he had been the successful manager of the campaign for the nomination and for the election.

He has been named to the Cabinet for the same reason that Farley was placed in Roosevelt's Cabinet, Hannigan in Truman's Brownell and Sumnerfield in Eisenhower's.

In American politics it has long been the rule, to which I cannot think of an exception, that the President keeps in his official family the chief political organizer of his victory. This is not done merely as a reward for past services. It is done to keep at the centre of things the man who knows best where are the sources of the President's political power.

For, while the Presidency rises far above party politics, it has its roots deep in party politics, and to be a successful President a man must be a successful politician. For these reasons it would have been unprecedented if Robert Kennedy had been excluded from the Cabinet because he is the President's brother.

The really debatable point is that the campaign manager has been placed at the head of the Department of Justice. The more usual practice has been to make the chief politician the Postmaster-General.

It is certain that in the sensitive office of Attorney-General, which controls law enforcement and the F.B.I., Robert Kennedy will be compelled to convince the country that he is not playing politics. As Attorney-General he will be judged by higher standards than he would have been as Postmaster-General.

There is, however, a notable precedent for his appointment. President Eisenhower chose Herbert Brownell, who organized his nomination and election, as his Attorney-General. It was not an altogether happy precedent, and it tends to emphasize the fact that Mr. Robert Kennedy, being both the brother and the campaign manager of the President, will find himself under continual and special scrutiny.

Among those who have worked closely with him there is no question of his exceptional competence as an administrator and as a law enforcer. There are some who say that he has a certain ruthless efficiency, and that he has not yet acquired a sufficiently highly refined and mellow sense of due process. We will see.

The selection of Douglas Dillon confirms the view, which some of us expressed during his campaign, that in general economic philosophy there is no serious difference between Kennedy and such modern and progressive Republicans as Gov. Rockefeller.

Mr. Nixon, I think, understood this. But President Eisenhower did not, and when he intervened in the campaign he misrepresented wholly the economic philosophy of Kennedy in regard to the budget, spending and saving, gold and the balance of payments.

The truth, as was evident to anyone who cared to seek it, is that Kennedy is a conservative of the age he lives in. His views are addressed to the contemporary scene, not to the dead past and not to an imaginary future.

Mr. Dillon is also a modern man, as are Gov. Rockefeller, Sen. Case, Sen. Sherman Cooper, and a very large number of Republicans.

His appointment does not signify that the new administration means to be more conservative than it would like to be. It means that the cabinet reflects the fact that there is a consensus in the country, which may work out as a coalition in Congress, among the modern and progressive members of both parties.

Mr. Dillon is also a modern man, as are Gov. Rockefeller, Sen. Case, Sen. Sherman Cooper, and a very large number of Republicans.

His appointment does not signify that the new administration means to be more conservative than it would like to be. It means that the cabinet reflects the fact that there is a consensus in the country, which may work out as a coalition in Congress, among the modern and progressive members of both parties.

Notes From London: Rents, Reminiscences and Copyrights

A LONDONER who has been seeing quite a bit of the various delegates attending the Rhodesian conference was walking with one of the Africans in Berkeley Square.

The visitor had been discussing the problem of low wages in so many parts of Africa. In his own territory you had to have subsidized housing because in so many households the breadwinner brought home as little as 5s. "That of course," he added, "is per month."

After they had parted the Londoner made his way across the square. Something in the window of an estate agent's office caught his eye. It was a modest sign in Knightsbridge "at 150 gns."

Out of curiosity he stepped in and asked the girl at the counter for details. She said laconically that there were two maids' bedrooms and a dressing-room as well as two ordinary bedrooms, and that the cottage was furnished in antiques of impeccable pedigree? And the rental of 150 guineas? That was presumably per month? "No, per week."

The figure, the girl agreed, was high, but as far as she knew it broke no record.

New Jerusalem

The guest list at the House of Commons dinner on Saturday for Professor Tawney's eightieth birthday read like a page of social history. More than a hundred of his friends from the universities, the trade union movement, the Workers' Educational Association, and from Labor politics gathered in greeting, some famous as Lord Atlee, some unknown and devoted as the surviving members of Tawney's first WEA class at Rochdale, which began in 1909.

"Those classes," said Tawney, with the modesty of the great teacher, "were the creation of the men and women who composed them, the cotton operatives, the clerks, engineers, potters, and miners who saw them as leading towards the new Jerusalem."

Unspoken Contrast

Professor Tawney's reminiscences of the early days of the Independent Labor Party in Manchester pointed a gentle, unspoken contrast.

"The ILP was like a Labor church. Socialism then was less a matter of the head than the heart: it was based on a conscientious conviction of what was right. When one left this fervent society and came to London and the Fabians one joined a different world."

But he paid generous homage to "the admirable Webbs." Without notes, he gave his friends a relentless, almost day-to-day history of the Sankey Commission, the general strike, the 1929 election and its aftermath.

For the present he finds the public very ignorant of politics in the real sense, although they may know more about social and economic problems. "I can't understand why we have so many economists and so few politicians."

Last-minute Fling

The D'Oyly Carte Opera trustees announce their hopes for a Christmas season at the Savoy, their traditional home, in 1961. On December 31, 1961, the copyright expires in all the operas, except "Cox and Box," which is protected until 1967.

One cannot help wondering if public loyalty will replace the legal sanctions which have kept the operas sacrosanct from generation to generation. Or will there be a spate of adaptations of "Pinafore on Ice," "Iolanthe 1962" with life peacocks, or a "Mikado in modern dress"?

Is there a chilling prospect of stupendous, tremendous, cinerematic, stereophonic versions to blind and deafen the young who have never had to strain their ears to catch the words "Tit willow" from the back of the church hall, in limping but lovingly faithful amateur productions?

Miss Bridget D'Oyly Carte has already announced that she is giving her rights to the Trust. In fact her generosity includes £30,000 in cash, costumes, scenery, prompt books, recording contracts, and the remaining rights in "Cox and Box." All this is worth about £150,000, and the trustees are warmly grateful.

No Surprise

The death of the Sunday Graphic after 45 years brought no sense of shock. Mr. Roy Thomson announced that its days were numbered and its staff had known long before that. The reason is simple.

The sales of the Graphic have declined since 1959 and the loss over this year has amounted to over £500,000. Twice during the year the sales graph showed a heartening rise—at the birth of Prince Andrew and at the wedding of Princess Margaret—but it is not good business to rely on the Royal Family for a series of spectacular occasions.

Mr. Thomson could have accepted an offer for the goodwill of the paper—The Sunday Dispatch was particularly interested—but none of these would have kept the paper alive. Instead a special edition of the Sunday Times was delivered to many of the Graphic subscribers containing two features by Graphic writers.

It will be odd if this persuades many of them that Mr. Thomson's better Sunday paper will suit them just as well.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Royal Canadian Legion

Referring to the courtesy extended to the Canadian Legion by addition of the word "Royal" to its name by consent of Her Majesty the Queen, and comments as published in the Times of Dec. 20, may I say that protocol does not permit of publicity in advance of such intention.

The writer did know some time ago that there was a possibility of the Queen conferring this honor on our organization. In so far as the change in badge is concerned it was necessary for Her Majesty to give consent for the use of the royal crown in design, and it is most unlikely that any further change in the type of new badge will be necessary.

Change Due in Vote, Tally

The recent "multiple-count" of the ballots cast in the 1960 Civic Election is a happening of which a repetition is decidedly undesirable. How a majority of 21, in the process of seven counts, can dwindle to a minority of 5, is something almost unbelievable, especially when it is considered that the same "bundle of ballots" was the subject of each "count."

The present system of handling our civic election can well be reviewed and improved, and made, particularly in arriving at the electors' decision.

In this day of mechanization, I believe it would be of great advantage if the City Manager, or the City Clerk, were authorized to investigate the use of voting machines, and I submit that organizations like IBM or Remington-Rand could provide some useful information of this nature.

Our Returning Officer informs me that some years ago, the use of such equipment was authorized by the then City Council and that this is on record. I further suggest that emphasis be placed on the standpoint of "What will it save" rather than "What will it cost."

The other alternative would be to review the present system, under which poll-clerks are employed, consisting of senior citizens who are on the old-age pension. They are required to sit, all bundled up, in a cold, drafty and possibly damp auditorium for a long twelve hours, handing out ballots and seeing that these ballots are properly deposited in the ballot boxes.

With the addition of some newcomers, at 8 p.m., they are then required to serve as enumerators and tally the votes as marked on the ballots, all for a remuneration of $1 per hour plus an allowance of 70 cents per meal for two meals!

At this stage, I suggest that at the close of the poll, the clerks are so fatigued and exhausted, that they can hardly hold a pencil, let alone make an accurate tally of the thousands of votes which have been cast. With only some 6,000 citizens voting, it meant that some 24,000 votes had to be tallied, in a matter of a couple of hours, and then do the first re-count.

I would recommend that consideration be given, at the close of the poll, for the clerks to be paid-off and provided with a good hot meal and not the 70-cent variety. Then, a fresh, bright crew of enumerators be brought in, and for this purpose I suggest that the services of a sufficient number of second and third year students of Victoria University be secured, and I venture to state that one counting would be sufficient.

There would be no necessity of having unlimited "unofficial" counts such as was in effect at the last election. If the present legislation needs amending, then have it done at the forthcoming session of the Provincial Parliament.

As the victim of the recent "long count," I submit these suggestions in the interests of improving our civic election machinery.

When Is 'Lord's Day'?

I was interested to notice in your paper the following: "Another road recommendation is a ban on trucks on the highways from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday."

The brief says this is laid down in the Lord's Day Act. (Times, Dec. 9, page 17.)

It seems that the time for the beginning and ending of this institution of Sunday has changed through the centuries. History shows that in the 12th century, for instance, the command was given forbidding labor in England from the ninth hour, three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, till sunrise on Monday. Then in Scotland an edict declared that Saturday from twelve at noon until Monday morning no man should engage in worldly business.

Dec. 27, 1920 — Walter Cameron Nichol, founder, editor and owner of the Vancouver Province, was sworn in as lieutenant-governor of B.C. on Christmas Day in Vancouver.

Dec. 27, 1940 — London: After three raidless days and nights under the unofficial Christmas "truce," the Battle of London boomed into action again, tonight.

Blanketed in Affection

IN the exhausted quiet of post-Boxing Day I have been looking at a beautifully knit pullover sweater. It is one of my prize possessions from Christmas, but it presents a problem.

The young lady who made the garment, so very far away in miles and so very close in affection, has endowed me with new stature. There has been no stinting of material in the sweater. There has been no shirking of extra stitches.

Stott

I picture her as she worked busily with her needles and I paint in a sentimental touch. Each stitch is graced with love. And I'm forced to the reluctant conclusion that you can have too much of even that.

For years we've had a family joke about my slipping chest. They don't call me Pearshape, a name reserved in our house for a person of political eminence. But they are not above suggesting that I might have played Santa Claus without using any pillows for stuffing.

Still, the adipose accretion of time has left me inadequately upholstered for the new pullover I have acquired. It hangs. It does not fit.

Donned before the full-length mirror in the hall, it makes me think of the man I might have been. The shoulders stretch away from the neckline like a navy officer's greatcoat. It is difficult to build into a pullover's shoulders the padding which gives so many narrow-chested sailors that topcoated athletic look.

Nor is it possible, in this type of sweater, to effect the London drape look so effective a few years ago in a worsted jacket. There just isn't enough width to me to justify the garment.

The lady in our house suggested that she could sew it in at the sides, which seemed promising for a moment or two. But it wouldn't work. You can't sew in shoulders also. Even if you could, there remains the small problem of length.

Having enjoyed the brisk winter of an English April, I have a precise appreciation for clothing that keeps the kidneys warm. At the same time, I have not yet achieved that easy acceptance of style which might encourage me to sit down on the back half of the pullover I'm wearing.

I might, of course, put it on outside my jacket, only my yen for unconventionality hasn't yet extended that far.

It isn't difficult, though, it is flattering, to understand how the error in size occurred. It is flattering because it implies that the young lady's part belief that her father is a much bigger man than, in fact, he is.

Also, she has seen him reacting over the years to a complex established in him as a small boy. In his childhood days, he was invariably giving clothes "to grow to." That was par in an age when careful parents had to assure themselves that money spent to cover the young would not be wasted by too rapid expansion of the youngster, in the physically formative stage.

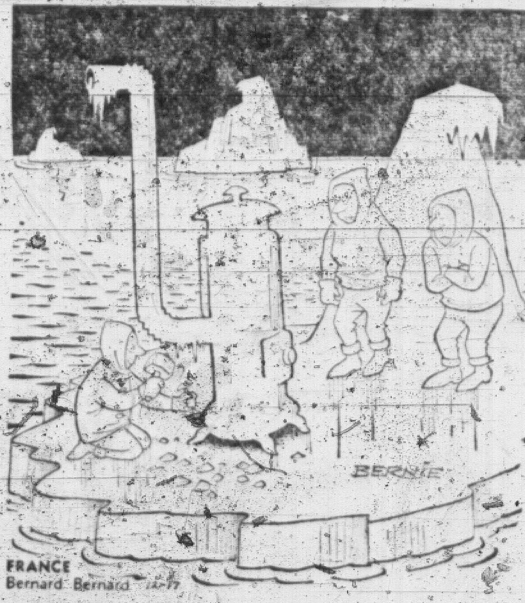

Because garments bought for him were invariably too big when new, he naturally swung the other way when he started earning and buying his own. The consequence was inevitable. As an adult, until his wife took him in hand, he favored skin-tight fittings.

A knowledgeable daughter could see the fault in this reaction. Hence her inclination to favor larger sizes for her parent.

So I gaze at my beautifully knit blue pullover, fingering the soft wool, appreciating as only a father can the thought that went into its construction, and wondering what can be done about it without hurting the maker's feelings.

They tell me there is a cleaning establishment in town which does a remarkable job of shrinking sweaters. Therein lies hope.

Otherwise I shall sing softly and with deep pathos that fine old ballad, "Sam, you made the pants too long," with suitable adaptations to the garment in question.

AGONY FOLLOWS SHOCK

Belgium Feels Threat to Life

By EDDY GILMORE

BRUSSELS (AP) — In a way, Belgium today is like a man who's been smashed up in a car accident.

The numbing shock of the Congo disaster delayed the arrival of the full weight of pain. But the agony of losing an empire has finally hit the nerve centre, and the patient is writhing.

Waves of crippling strikes have struck a people already dazed, embittered and bleeding from the Congo's recent record of rape and murder and from the colossal loss of property and investment in that former colony.

The threat to order in this normally prosperous little country is so serious that Premier Gaston Eyskens says "the very existence of our institutions" is threatened.

AGAINST CUSHION

The chorus of complaint is against the government's austerity plan, cuts in social services and increase in taxes, to cushion the shock of losing Congo revenue.

Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny is a sort of composite picture of a great many earnest, conscientious but troubled Belgians.

"The mess in the Congo," he said in an interview, "is not just a Belgian problem. It's well, its the responsibility, perhaps first of all, of the United States, for the United States is the great leader of the West."

"Something is stirring in Leopoldville and I feel it's stirring for the better," he said. "The young commissioners there, they are clever young men. They are trying to do their best."

Wigny was asked what went wrong after Belgium gave the Congo independence last summer.

"Well, we pulled out too quickly," he said. "We see that now. But there were many considerations, you know. We had plans to build on the base of a pyramid. But decisions were made elsewhere. In France, in England both granting independence to African Colonies.

A clerk in a small business was bitter:

"Too many of our people went down there for money, for money and nothing else. They were like little emperors and they had no feeling for the people, only for themselves. Who can be sympathetic with them?"

Shake Up U.S. Agencies' Report Cites Ike, Truman

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

President John F. Kennedy Monday night released a blistering report that says federal regulatory agencies are afflicted with outside pressure, political appointees, and a lack of concern by presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

The report, which recommends a massive shake-up and reorganization of the agencies, is the product of James M. Landis, former Harvard law school dean and former member or chairman of several of the agencies involved.

It speaks of "Alice-in-Wonderland procedures" of drifting and stalling, of costly delays in getting the work done. Kennedy is expected to use it as the basis for action and recommendations of his own. Legislation will be required.

The report brings Truman and Eisenhower in unmistakably but not by name.

It says of regulatory agencies in general that for the last decade "the executive appears to have had no real concern with their operation." A decade covers most of Eisen-dower's administration and members of congress as well as the agencies themselves.

Kennedy appraised the report in a one sentence statement.

"This is a most important and impressive analysis of the regulatory agencies which deserves the attention of the

"Left turn" has had an unsavory flavor since our first reference to it here a month ago.

Points of view on this subject are possibly more varied than on any other driving problem, to judge from letters and casual remarks received meanwhile.

Part of the blame for this onslaught of opinion must be borne by "Tips" for giving a slightly misleading impression of drivers' rights at an intersection where a left-turning driver is confronted by oncoming through traffic. (See cut.)

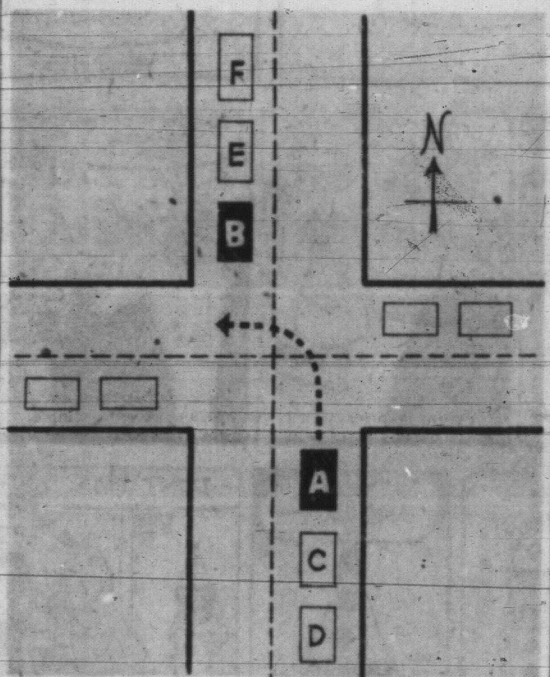

"Tips" said car "A," signalling his turn, should move slowly into the intersection, allowing "B" and one or two others to get clear.

It is then the duty of subsequent cars headed south to allow "A" to make his turn if it can be done in safety. For once "A" is into the intersection and signalling his left turn, he has the right-of-way over traffic approaching the intersection," we said.

That was not intended to convey the idea that "A" could forge through regardless of the oncoming tide. He must still wait until he can turn in reasonably safe.

Once he has begun this turn, taking every precaution, he may then expect to get clear of the intersection without difficulty, provided he yields to pedestrians who may happen to be in the west crosswalk.

One motorist suggested Victorians might adopt a procedure apparently recognized in Vancouver.

By this "courtesy custom," "A" and "C," for example, are allowed by oncoming traffic to make their turns, clearing the lane behind them for straight through traffic, unless there are others wishing to turn left in that lane.

The driver suggests that otherwise, the straight through stream once started does not stop, blocking the other lane of traffic completely.

Drive sanely over the the holiday and send your suggestions to Times "Traffic Trouble Tips."

'HAMS' SPED CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP) —Ham radio operators in the far north and in all 10 provinces worked overtime Christmas Day to permit people at isolated northern outposts to communicate with friends and relatives on the "outside."

Many amateur radio operators between British Columbia and Quebec were on the air specifically to handle Christmas messages to and from the North.

Licensed radio operators in the Northwest Territories, whose call letters all are prefixed with the call VES, traditionally hold a Christmas Day "radio party" and assist each other in contacting relatives in cities and towns across Canada.

The "skip" of the radio waves prevented operators in Fort Smith from talking to other VESs this year during most of the day, but they listened to other stations throughout the North who reached the "outside."

Don Jackson VESDJ in Fort Smith, joined a round table of eight VESs on the air at midnight Christmas Eve.

ARCTIC CALLS ARIZONA

The longest call reported was from within the Arctic Circle to Phoenix, Ariz.

The most northerly points on the air were Alert, Sachs Harbor and Mould Bay, all in the Northwest Territories.

Radio transmitting conditions were reported good throughout most of the Territories.

Jackson described the work of radio amateurs in the provinces as "a swell job" and said he heard many of them mention that their Christmas dinner was waiting but they would handle "one more call."

Some of the operators transmit only in Morse code but the majority have voice transmission facilities and can have a contact in the provinces make a telephone "patch" so that direct spoken messages are possible.

FIRST AND LAST—Zoo history is made with the arrival in Washington, D.C., of a two-year-old tigress named Mohane Rewa. The extremely rare blue-eyed, white animal is the first of her type to set paw in the Western Hemisphere. She was obtained from the Maharaja of Rewa who reportedly has a corner on the animals and values them at about $10,000 each. The Indian government, disturbed by the Maharaja's action, has banned further white tiger exports. Mohane Rewa will live at the National Zoological Park.

N.Y. Drops Race, Color Reference

NEW YORK (UPI)—Birth certificates issued to babies born here starting in 1961 no longer will contain reference to race or color.

New York will be the first community in the nation to eliminate racial information from birth documents, according to the health commissioner, Leona Baumgartner, who announced the change Monday.

The action resulted from protests by minority groups, including the National Association of Colored People and the Urban League. They held that such information tended to promote discrimination.

The health department will continue to gather statistics on race and color, Dr. Baumgartner said, but they will be contained in a confidential file not subject to public inspection or to subpoena.

Later in 1961, she continued, reference to race will be eliminated from death certificates as well.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 30-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Donna Jean Beishline, aged 13, of Allentown, Penn., for her question:

What Is a Puffball?

Dandelion is coined from words meaning lion's teeth. Cornflowers grow among the corn and sunflowers turn towards the sun. Milkweed has a white, milky sap, and there is no prettier hat in the world than a Texas blue bonnet. All these plants or flowers have names which tell us something about them. The puffball also is just what it claims to be—a round ball which, at certain seasons, gives off a cloudy puff.

You may come across a puffball in the woods or fields. It may be a few inches wide and pear-shaped rather than round. It may be much larger, say two feet wide, and look like a boulder. The puffball may be white, dirty grey or murky brown. At the right season it sends forth a smoky cloud of tiny, tiny spores. These powdery seedlets may be olive green, yellow or purple.

A sizable puffball may puff forth some 7,000,000,000,000 spores, all light enough to float on the breeze. But sad to say, only one little spore in a trillion is likely to land where it has a chance of growing into a new puffball. This little spore that succeeds will land on rich, warm soil where there is plenty of gentle moisture.

The puffball is a fungus plant, first cousin to the mushrooms and the toadstools. It is the giant of this plant group which also includes the molds and the mildews, the yeasts and the microscopic bacteria. There are some 75,000 different fungi and all of them are plants which manufacture to get along without green chlorophyll. This is the green substance which most plants use to make plant food from air, water and sunlight.

Fed by Other Plants

Since the puffball cannot manufacture its own food, it must use prefabricated food made by other plants. It finds this food in soil which is rich with decaying vegetation. The one in a trillion spore lands in a field or wooded region where decaying leaves or tree trunks are near the surface of the soil. Here it feeds and becomes a mass of thread-like material which is called the mycelium.

Strange to say, the mycelium buried below the surface of the soil is actually the puffball plant. It takes in nourishment from the rich soil and grows into a matted mesh of pale threads. At the proper time, this buried plant puts forth a fruiting body. A little white bump appears above the surface. It grows and swells into a pale round puffball. As it ripens, the puffball becomes filled with countless little spores. The puffball, now a ripe fruit, needs only a gentle nudge from a person or animal. The teeming spores will then stream forth in puffs and clouds of smoky powder.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Albert Strout, age seven, of South Portland, Maine, for his question:

Do earthworms hibernate?

Mr. Pinky the earthworm has no warm coat of fur or feathers. His bare skin is not thick enough to keep out the winter cold. In the coldest months, Jack Frost may freeze even the ground. All the moisture in the soil may be frozen hard for several feet below the surface. Down here is where Mr. Pinky lives and builds his burrow. But Jack Frost does not match our Pinky. For he made his plans long before winter came.

Pinky's burrow can be anywhere from one to eight feet deep. It ends in a little room. Come fall, Pinky and perhaps one or two of his friends go down, down into the burrow. They carefully stuff the opening of the burrow with leaves to keep out the water in case it rains. Then each worm curls into a tight little ball and falls into the deep sleep of hibernation until warm spring weather.

HIS CHRISTMAS TURKEY A SANTA CLAUS DREAM

GLASGOW (AP)—James Hamilton, serving three months for theft in Barlinnie prison, didn't like his Christmas.

Prison officials told him Christmas Day he had been released. He was about to have a turkey dinner at home when police came and said it was a mistake. The prison had released the wrong man.

Hamilton missed his Christmas dinner at home. He got back to his cell to late for the prison Christmas dinner.

HEAD-TO-HEAD FOOTBALL

Violence of Monday's National Football League playoff is demonstrated as Philadelphia's Bobby Walston (83) drives forward in almost horizontal position to crash head-on into Jon Symank (27) of Green Bay Packers. Eagles pulled out thrilling 17-13 victory at Philadelphia to take title.

Bednarik's Last-Ditch Tackle Saved Grid Crown for Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Eagles captured the 1960 National Football League crown Monday with a brilliant display of clutch passing and defensive work, leaving Green Bay Packers' title dreams buried in the goalpost shadows nine agonizing yards from victory.

The Eagles, a Cinderella team which rose from last place in 1958 to second last year and the eastern conference championship this season, beat the Packers 17-13 before 67,325 delirious fans and an American-Canadian television audience. But it was not easy.

The final few seconds were ticking away when Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr fired a short pass up the middle to Jim Taylor and the great full-back charged past Philadelphia's 10-yard line.

Taylor seemed destined to go all the way to provide one of the biggest shocks of the season. But out of a group of clanking Eagles came Chuck Bednarik, who had played the entire game as offensive center and defensive linebacker. Bednarik lunged at Taylor and brought him down on the nine-yard line. The drama had ended. There was only jubilation and dejection.

For Eagle coach Buck Shaw and quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, both of whom repeated they are retiring, it marked the greatest moment in long and colorful grid careers. Shaw, 61, who installed the play which led to the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter, said: "You can't go any farther than this." It was his first title in 12 years of coaching professional football.

The defence did a great job," said Shaw. "They got the job done when they had to."

Green Bay, western conference champion, led 6-0 on field goals of 20 and 23 yards by Paul Hornung but the Eagles struck quickly in the second quarter.

Van Brocklin, at 34, a 12-year veteran who played in four previous championships with Los Angeles Rams, connected with halfback Tommy McDonald for 22 yards, then hit him again with a 35-yard touchdown strike. Bobby Walston added the extra point to put the Eagles ahead 7-6.

The Eagles increased the lead to 10-6 when Walston booted a 15-yard field goal set up by Van Brocklin passes of 41 yards to end Pete Retzlaff and 22 yards to rookie Red Dean.

Long Kickoff Return Set Up Clincher

The clincher, however, came after the Packers had taken a 13-10 lead on a seven-yard touchdown pass from Starr to Max McGee in the fourth quarter. It was Dean's five-yard touchdown run which he set up himself with a 58-yard kickoff return to the Packers' 39 yard line after Green Bay's final score.

The kickoff return play was a new one Shaw installed last week. Shaw said that on the play, Dean starts down the middle, then cuts to his left with Eagles' linemen double-teaming two of the Packers' fast men up front, thus opening a lane between them and Dean.

"Only for that runback by Dean we probably would have held them," said Packer coach Vince Lombardi. "That gave the Eagles the big lift and we couldn't stop them. Dean certainly had great blocking on the big run. But he had to have. No one returns a kick that way in this league without blocking."

VINCE WANTED A FEW MORE SECONDS

Eagles Just Played Real Good

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Green Bay coach, Vince Lombardi, and his downcast Packers, offered plenty of reasons—both refused to alibi—for their 17-13 loss to Philadelphia Monday in the National Football League championship showdown.

"The Eagles just played a real good ball game," Lombardi said, managing a smile. "But I am real proud of my club. They stayed in there all the way, right down to the final gun. It's too bad we didn't have a few more seconds, though."

"The Eagles just played a helluva game, that's all," said defensive end Bill Quinlan. "We made the big mistake. What mistake? Letting them score more points."

Lombardi blamed the loss partly on the Packers' failure to push across touchdowns on two early drives that stalled and forced field goals by Paul Hornung, the NFL scoring king, who set the individual scoring mark of 176 points this year.

"I guess you would say there went the ball game. Instead of leading by two touchdowns we were ahead only 6-0 and then Norm Van Brocklin came through," said Lombardi.

He explained that his potent running attack was hampered by the condition of Franklin Field.

"The field was very difficult to run on," he said.

"I don't want that to sound like an alibi. It was just as tough for the Eagles."

Another key play, which dashed Green Bay hopes was Ted Dean's 57-yard runback of the kickoff after the Packers had taken a 13-10 lead early in the fourth quarter.

Dean broke loose behind tremendous blocking and raced down the left sidelines to the Green Bay 40. After a holding penalty gave the Eagles a first down on the 32, the Eagles moved to the five and Dean skirted left end for the winning tally.

"Only for that runback we probably would have held them," Lombardi said.

Hornung had to retire in the third quarter—appearing only to boot a conversion after he suffered a recurrence of an old pinched nerve high on the shoulder.

Hal's Even Sorrier Now Bucks Didn't Get Gerry

Cats Come Back In Third Period To Trip Portland

Portland 4, Cougars 6
By ERNIE FEDORUK

Aside from the fact that his Portland Buckaroos have been put on ice, even if only temporarily, there are certain aspects of Monday's Western Hockey League game in Memorial Arena that annoy Hal Laycoe.

One is Gerry Goyer. Laycoe insists he could have taken Goyer to Portland "if I wanted to," and the Bucks' coach laments the fact that he didn't make a greater effort to grab the big centre from Victoria Cougars.

Goyer is gaining recognition as one of the league's top centres, and it annoys Laycoe because the one-time Victoria coach predicted as much last year.

More annoying was the fact that Goyer demonstrated same for Mr. Laycoe's benefit Monday. The proof was supplied by Goyer's two goals, one assist and his general all-around play in sparking Cougars to their 6-4 victory over the Bucks.

Goyer's second goal turned out to be the winner and capped a third-period comeback that did much to leave 3,557 partisan fans in a happy frame of mind.

But Goyer, who now has scored seven goals in Cougars' last seven games, had to share the afternoon's spotlight with linemates George Ford and Bill Saunders.

11-POINT MELON

The three carved up an 11-point melon in what undoubtedly was the best performance by any Victoria line this season. Ford was never out of high gear in duplicating Goyer's scoring efforts while Saunders chipped in with a four-assist afternoon.

Defenceman Jim Hay and centre Doug Anderson added Victoria's other goals while Dale Rolfe, Gord Haworth, Barney Krahe and Art Jones counted for Portland.

The Cougars needed all they could get out of the Goyer-Ford-Saunders line, plus some timely saves by goalie Marcel Pelletier, to pick up their important victory. They won it all in one period after turning in a spotty performance for the first two.

Pelletier was called upon to make 35 saves compared to 29 shots handled by Portland's Don Head.

SAVES OFFER SPARK

It seemed as if some of Pelletier's finest saves helped provide an offensive spark. In the first period, for example, he came up with two fine stops, while Buckaroos hemmed the Cougars in their own zone for almost a full two minutes.

Ford, in the clear after picking up a rink-wide pass from Saunders, scored his first goal to put Cougars ahead 1-0.

His second goal, which tied the score in the third period, also came against the run of play. Portland's Larry Leach missed two glorious chances to score, including one shot that glanced off a post, and suddenly Ford found himself in the clear again.

The speedy winger missed a chance for his first hat-trick of the season when he broke in on Head at the 8:30 mark of the third period and shot wide of the net with nobody but the goalie to beat.

DISORGANIZED

Victoria coach George Agar got a steady performance out of the Red Johansen-Doug Macaulay-Jim Moro line but had difficulty with the third unit after winger Bert Fizzell suffered a charley horse in the opening period.

Fizzell and rookie Don Wilson both took turns playing on the line with Anderson and Paul Mansnick, but each combination found it difficult to get untracked. Mansnick played with a bruised muscle in his right arm and could not hold his stick effectively.

Pelletier also came up ailing in the first period. He suffered a muscle injury in his back and was bothered by it for most of the game.

Cougars, who joined Edmonton Flyers in sixth place as a result of the victory, get another chance to climb up the ladder Friday when they face Spokane Comets at the Arena. Agar announced after Monday's game that the team has asked waivers on Elliott Chorley, who is expected to be sent to St. Paul of the International League.

NEALE FRASER paces cup triumph

Fraser, Emerson Shatter Hopes Of Italian Team

SYDNEY (AP)—Australia shattered Italy's fondest tennis hopes today and won the Davis Cup when Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson whipped Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the challenge round.

Victory sent the Australians into a 3-0 lead and means Wednesday's final two singles matches in the tennis classic will be meaningless.

It marks the fifth time in the last six years the Australians have won the cup. They have been involved in every challenge round since 1938 and have run up 10 victories.

The Italians defeated the United States in the interzone final two weeks ago.

This time, though, there was no miracle if the cards. They dropped the first two singles matches to Fraser and Rod Laver Monday. Still, they thought they would at least put off the decision until the final two singles. Pietrangeli and Sirola had beaten Fraser and Emerson in a local tournament last month.

But Fraser and Emerson, playing steady if not spectacular tennis, grabbed the upper hand at the start and appeared to get stronger as the match progressed.

ITALIANS HAD SUPPORT

Pietrangeli and Sirola did have their opportunities and the crowd of 15,000 that swelled through the 90-degree heat in White City Stadium gave them plenty of support.

Sirola, a six-foot-seven but let-ball specialist, rocked the Australians with his flashy service. He gave up just two points on his first three services.

In the second set Fraser and Emerson were within one point of breaking Pietrangeli. Fraser poked a shot far back and a linesman umpire ruled it good. The crowd hooted. The referee ordered a replay.

Maroons Post Third Victory

CHOMUTOV (CP)—Winnipeg Maroons, after yielding the first goal of the hockey game, went on to clobber V.T.Z. Chomutov, 6-1, before 13,000 persons Monday night for their third triumph in the first four games of their nine-game Czechoslovakian exhibition tour.

The Maroons also won a Christmas Day contest in Prague, downing Prague Sokols, 5-1, before 14,000 fans.

In Monday night's game, the Canadians yielded a goal by Chomutov's Kribal at 8:50 of the first period before hitting the scoring column.

Comets Whip Totems

The surprising Spokane Comets, who tackle Victoria Cougars at Memorial Arena Friday night, have moved into third place in the Western Hockey League race.

Comets took another big step up the ladder Monday night at Seattle as they fired three second-period goals to defeat the Totems 4-1 before 3,566 fans.

In another game Monday, last-place Winnipeg Warriors ended an eight-game losing streak by defeating the front-running Calgary Stampeders 4-2.

On Christmas Day, Totems chalked up a 2-1 triumph over the Buckaroos before more than 9,000 fans at Portland.

QUICKLY TIED

In Portland, Arnie Schmutz gave Buckaroos a 1-0 lead Sunday but Seattle's Bill MacFarland wasted no time tying the score and then Marc Boileau got the winner in the third period.

At Seattle, Spokane's goals were divided among Bev Bell, Steve Witluk, Sandy Hucul and Del Topoli while MacFarland got Seattle's only tally.

Comets scored three second-period goals and then added another in the third to cinch the game.

Lorne Davis led the Winnipeg attack with two goals while Gerry Brissan and Barry Ross got the others. Gord Vejprava and Jim Brown countered for the Stampeders.

Soccer Star Loses Leg In Bus Crash

HUNTINGDON, England (AP)—Soccer star Douglas McMillan, 19, had his right leg amputated in emergency surgery in a crashed bus Monday night.

He was one of eight Sheffield Wednesday team players injured when their bus crashed into a telephone pole and landed in a ditch on a return trip after a game in London against Arsenal.

Firemen and ambulance attendants supported McMillan while Dr. A. K. Sear, surgeon from the Huntingdon County Hospital, amputated the leg. McMillan's leg was trapped between jagged pieces of metal.

Three other players were detained in hospital. They were identified as centre half Peter Swan, left half T. Kay, and Colin Parsons.

Four others left hospital after treatment for shock and minor injuries.

Tourists Tumble To Cricket Loss

SYDNEY (Reuters)—The West Indies touring side Monday crashed to defeat by an innings and 97 runs before New South Wales despite a sparkling 105 in 112 minutes by Conrad Hunte.

The tourists, following on after being shot out for 163 in reply to the home side's 468, collapsed against the bowling of Richie Benaud (4 for 77) and Johnny Martin (4 for 80), and were all-out for 208.

B.C.'s Jobless In Federation

VANCOUVER (CP) — The voice of the unemployed was heard on an organized note up by the B.C. Federation of Labor.

Struggling as individuals for a long time, the jobless are forming councils in the main centres of the province. By January, they will number almost a dozen.

All will report to a provincial body called the B.C. Federation of the Unemployed, set up by the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The provincial body will meet in January, correlate the suggestions of local councils and turn them into policy.

Likely decision at this meeting will be to organize a march on the B.C. Legislature's next session.

Local councils are talking up the march, but details are elusive.

Labor observers feel the move by the B.C. Federation has solved in part an old problem. There has always been the fear the Communist party would take in the unemployed and the jobless would wind up marching around with banners devoted exclusively to Communist propaganda.

The federation accordingly has made the organizational structure of the unemployed tight.

The executive council of the unemployed group will have 19 members. Fourteen will be "labor leaders," the secretaries of 10 labor councils, the secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, the secretaries of the Vancouver and Victoria building trades councils and one man from the Canadian Labor Congress.

The remaining five members will be representatives of the unemployed. Local unemployed councils will be under the wings of local labor councils.

Nominal dues will more than likely be charged.

A Christmas Parcel to Cherish

By Susan Butt

A delightful holiday treat was unwrapped by the National Ballet of Canada in the Royal Theatre Monday night.

Regrettably, the Christmas parcel was unveiled before a house with too many empty seats for a show of this stature.

Opening with the classical ballet "Princess Aurora," program continued with the eerie "Ballad" and ended with the comical "Pineapple Poll."

A fairy tale came to life in "Princess Aurora." In the hands of the old masters (music was by P. I. Tchaikowski) and choreography by Marius Petipa) the spirited cast gave a series of dances against the stately backdrop of a palace.

Likely solos by fairies of the court and their cavaliers prepared the way for entrance of prima ballerina, Lois Smith.

Following her number, was graceful "Garland Dance" presented in array of blue and gold costumes and flowers.

Grace of line and intricacies of composition in "Bluebird Pas de Deux" were rendered by Judie Colman and Hans Meister. Their warm interpretation of the difficult piece delighted the audience.

"Red Riding Hood and the Wolf" and "The White Cat and Puss-in-Boots" supplied comical touches.

Highlight of the evening was the selection "Aurora Pas de Deux and Variations." The virile dancing of David Adams as Prince was a perfect complement to the gracefulness of Lois Smith as Princess Aurora.

"Ballad" which followed featured a striking setting in frontier days. It was a story which contrasted the desolation of age with the spirit of youth. More disturbing than the tragedy of the story was the mixture of ballet dancing with modern dance in a cowboy setting. It didn't fit somehow.

Petite Frances Greenwood proved herself quite a comic when she played a frivolous coquette in the title role of "Pineapple Poll." She turned in an outstanding performance along with Kenneth Melville as Captain Belaye in the fun-filled ballet.

A busy performer throughout the evening was Victoria's Jacqueline Ivings. She showed wide repertoire as Camelia Fairy in "Princess Aurora," Martha in "Ballad" and Blanche in "Pineapple Poll."

Years are needed to build a top ballet company. First, each dancer must acquire technique and the correct artistic state of mind. Second, the company

ROBBED GIRL:

'All These Wonderful Victorians'

Victorians opened their hearts and their pocketbooks on Christmas Eve for an 18-year-old Austrian girl who was beaten and robbed by a purse-snatcher Friday night.

It was a Christmas to remember for Monica Mueller, a department store clerk who lives with her mother at 1455 Elford.

She received from generous Victorians more than $150 in cash and cheques and a large quantity of food.

$20 TAKEN

The young woman was knocked to the pavement by a thief as she walked home on Fort near Cook about 6 p.m. Friday. Her purse containing $20 to buy Christmas presents and food, was stolen. When word got around of her plight, Victorians rallied to her assistance. Her employer paid her an additional week's salary, while others donated food and money.

"I never knew people could be so wonderful," Miss Mueller said as gifts began to pour into her home. "Are all people as good as this?"

"I don't know how I'm going to be able to thank all the people. Many didn't even leave their name and address."

BOOTLEG BROADCAST FAILED

First Commercial, 'SOS'

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — It seemed like a wonderful idea when some promoters in Sweden hit on a way of getting around the country's ban on commercial radio broadcasting. But today, they aren't so sure.

First they bought an old ship, fitted it out as a complete commercial radio station. Then they anchored it outside Sweden's three-mile territorial limit and prepared to bombard the mainland with American-style programs, including paid commercials.

The first transmission was supposed to be four days ago — but nothing was heard.

USED FLASHLIGHT

Swedish coastal authorities didn't give it a thought until Monday, when the sea-going disc jockeys sent out their first transmission—an SOS flashed to a nearby lighthouse with a flashlight.

Coastal authorities sent a launch through a raging storm to pick up the 14-man crew, just as the ship's radio tower was about to collapse into the howling sea.

Early today, a salvage vessel was towing the "pirate" radio ship back to shore and safety, and the crew was still waiting at the lighthouse for the storm to calm down.

Embarrassed promoters explained why the ship had to use flashlight to send the distress signals. The vessel was fully equipped to broadcast rock-and-roll to the mainland, but it didn't have a radio telephone set.

'SUFFERING' IN CANADA REPORTED BY RED CHINA

PEKING (Reuters) — The top Communist Chinese newspaper Monday carried reports of Christmas "suffering" in Canada, the United States, West Germany and elsewhere in the capitalist world.

The reports, latest in the Chinese press series of the "economic crisis" in Western nations, contrasted with stories published telling of the prosperity and industrial progress of Communist countries.

Monday's grim Yuletide reports from the West were carried by Peking's People's Daily, which said:

"Merry Christmas now can be seen everywhere in Canada—newspapers, television, store windows. But to unemployed Canadians, heartbroken with the problem of finding jobs, Christmas is severe and hard."

Red Planes Bought

ACCRA (Reuters) — Transport and Communications Minister Krobo Edusei last week accepted two Soviet Ilushin-18 aircraft, the first of eight planes bought from Russia for Ghana Airways. Soviet pilots will fly the four-engine turboprops on routes between this West African capital and other African nations.

BOXING DAY WAS HARDLY SUMMER but five intrepid swimmers plunged into 44-degree water in the Inner Harbor to compete in annual Christmas swim sponsored by Victoria Amateur Swimming Club.

Swim Coach's Son, Daughter Win Annual Teeth-Chattering Splash

A teen-aged brother and sister "team" took first and second place in the annual "polar bear swim" in the Inner Harbor today.

Jim McCague, 18, 3106 Glasgow, won the race, while his 13-year-old sister Wendy came second. They are children of prominent swimming coach James McCague.

Three other competitors braved the 44-degree water temperature and 47-degree air temperature in the 42nd annual Christmas swim sponsored by Victoria Amateur Swimming Club.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Greater Victoria's two main hospitals had six children born Christmas Day, one in St. Joseph's and the rest in Royal Jubilee.

The St. Joseph's birth was a girl. At Royal Jubilee there were three boys and two girls.

An appeal for increased use of the federal government's winter work assistance will be heard by city council at its next meeting. Victoria Labor Council dispatched a resolution urging aldermen "to step up the program of public works" with Ottawa's assistance in order to help reduce unemployment this winter.

Pussywillow was seen in full bud on the Durrance Road on Monday, which naturalists say is exceptionally early.

Growing beside it was a bush of the bird cherry whose leaves were bursting through the waxed bud.

Defeated alderman candidate Elgin Neish today demanded city council reform the ballot counting procedures. In a brief to council, he criticized the need for a judicial recount in the Dec. 8 election and alleged "there appears to be no attempt to conform to the requirements for balloting and tallying laid down in the Municipal Act."

The Revelstoke Board of Trade and the Nakusp Chamber of Commerce, backed by other groups, have arranged a meeting with Lands and Forests Minister Williston at Victoria, Wednesday, to discuss the Columbia River development plans.

BURGLARS KEEP BUSY ON HOLIDAY

Burglars scored in three out of four city break-ins over the Christmas holiday. Here's the box score:

S. J. Willis Junior High School—$10 stolen from the cafeteria, and an unsuccessful attempt to smash into a safe.

Cherry Bank Hotel, 825 Burdett—$52 worth of liquor and wine taken.

Chris Coffee Shop, 1033 Cook—money and cigarettes taken from a vending machine.

Victoria Machinery Depot, Bay Street—nothing missing.

Student Killed In Car

End-Over-End Highway Plunge

An 18-year-old University of British Columbia student, Barry Bourque of Ladysmith, was killed Monday night when a car in which he was a passenger rolled over on the highway north of Ladysmith.

The car was driven by Euan Cameron, 30, of Ladysmith, police reported.

The victim's sister, Jean, 21, was treated in Ladysmith hospital for minor injuries.

The accident happened at 7:45 p.m. at the junction of Code Road and Brenton-Park Road, three miles north of the community.

ON RIGHT SIDE

RCMP from Ladysmith were on the scene within five minutes. The victim was sitting on the right-hand side in the front seat, his sister in the middle.

Police said it was foggy at the time of the accident and apparently the driver misjudged the corner.

The car was going north when it hit the ditch on the right side of the road and rolled end-over-end.

An inquest was scheduled to open tonight.

Girl Injured As Six Flee House Blaze

Six tenants were evacuated from a rooming house at 731 Market Street early Christmas morning when fire broke out on the top floor.

A 16-year-old girl, Frances V. Fuller, suffered a badly cut hand while escaping through a window in the smoke-filled house.

She was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Damage to the house is estimated at $3,000.

USED FIRE ESCAPE

The city fire department said the fire was discovered shortly after 4 a.m., Sunday.

It broke out at the entrance of an upstairs hallway and blocked escape through the front door. Tenants had to use the fire escape.

Firemen in a few minutes had the fire under control.

Sleeping Man Drowns When Boat Founders

Survived Fire Last February

Dead is Clyde Spence, who lived alone in his old 26-foot boat "Nellie" for some three years to stretch out his pension.

The boat was last seen at its moorings at 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The sinking was discovered at 12:55 p.m. Sunday when the hulk was spotted in 30 feet of water.

Man Arrested As Police Use Walkie-Talkies

Smash-and-Grab At Drug Store

A man was arrested by Saanich police early this morning only four hours after a smash-and-grab burglary at the Shelbourne Plaza drug store.

He will be charged in Saanich police court Wednesday.

It is the second time within four months the store has been broken into. On Sept. 24, thieves smashed a hole through the roof of the store and escaped with drugs and money.

Owner of the store is Martin Doan.

Police said the thief smashed the glass window of the store's door at 9:30 p.m. Monday, and in full view of passersby started to load his gunny sack with merchandise.

LEAVES TRAIL

He escaped just before police arrived, leaving behind a trail of cigarette packages.

An hour later police found the stolen goods stored in a shed in a field off Stamboul Street.

Police for the first time used walkie-talkies leading up to the arrest.

Police today were still trying to find relatives, if any.

The body was recovered from the boat's cabin by a skin-diver on orders of coroner Dr. J. H. Moore.

There was no immediate decision as to whether an inquest would be held. Cause of mishap was not revealed.

Last February the boat's cabin was gutted by fire but Mr. Spence patched it up with scrap wood and rags and continued to live in the craft—one of several tied up permanently to the wharf—to make his pension stretch out.

"I've been through a lot worse than this. I'm used to toughing it out," he told a reporter at the time.

Bird Brigade May Score Record Count

Victoria Natural History Society today was counting on a record bird count for Canada again after 35 members spotted 114 species between dawn and dusk Monday.

"That beats the record for Canada set at 106 last year by our society and we expect it will be a record this year unless the Vancouver group is really lucky," said David Stirling, a co-chairman of the Boxing Day counting project.

Ornithological groups throughout North America make the annual bird count during the Christmas week because bird populations are relatively stable during the period.

"This year's count probably was higher because of the very mild weather we've had."

The society's spotters were spread out in 12 groups covering a 15-mile radius from Island View Beach on the north to Witty's Lagoon on the south.

Last year, a total of some 30,000 birds were counted in the search for different species and this figure is expected to be duplicated when tabulations are completed for Monday's count, Mr. Stirling said.

THAT ALWAYS GETS YOUR DAY OFF TO A GOOD START.

WELL, AT LEAST I'M CONTRIBUTING SOMETHING TO SOCIETY!

ADVENTUROUS NURSE HERE

Warm Hearts Melt Ice-Bound Labrador

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The temperature drops to 45 below but there are plenty of warm hearts in Labrador, says Nurse Mary Taylor of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"Most of the people there are fishermen and they lead a tough, hard life. Yet the majority are kindly, good-natured men who help each other. And their families are much the same."

Nurse Taylor is on leave from the Grenfell Mission, which operates a far-flung nursing service across the snowy wastes of Labrador.

BIG CHANGE

Working in a big city hospital is a tremendous change from a snow-bound mission station, Nurse Taylor said. "The Royal Jubilee is a highly efficient organization and I hope to gain experience here which will be useful to the mission in Labrador."

Nurse Taylor was born and raised in Malvern, Worcestershire, England—a lovely old town but too sleepy for her.

ADVENTUROUS

"I always wanted to work in a cold rigorous climate where life is more of an adventure," she said, "and Labrador is a great place for adventure and experience."

Nurse Taylor revealed that there are no newspapers and no TV in Labrador.

"We rely mainly on the CBC broadcasts from Halifax for our news and information," she said, "and I must say they do a pretty good job."

Nurse Taylor will be working at the Royal Jubilee Hospital until around the middle of February. Then she will return once more to the lonely wastes of Labrador—land of fish and furs.

30,000 WORKERS

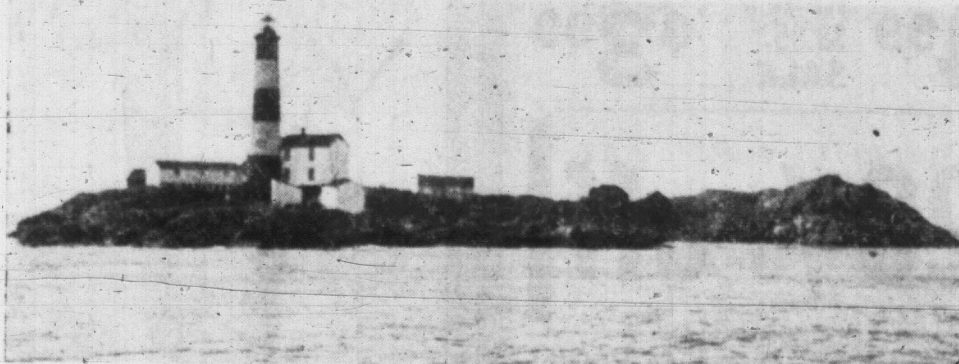

Labrador's chief industry, she says, is cod fishing. Between May and October cod of the fattest and firmest is caught around the Labrador coast and as many as 30,000 people are employed in the industry.

Labrador's nursing missions are operated by the International Grenfell Association and there are numerous radio transmitters whereby one mission can communicate with another.

"It is a rugged country but very appealing to those who like adventure," Nurse Taylor says.

NAVY PLACES PLAQUE AT RACE ROCKS LIGHT

100 Years of Faithful Service

Race Rocks lighthouse is 100 years old. The RCN held a special birthday party Boxing Day to mark the occasion.

In recognition of the fact the beacon has been a landmark to ships of the navy, the RCN placed a large bronze plaque on the lighthouse.

It reads: "1860-1960. Presented to the Race Rocks lighthouse-26 December, 1960, by the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy upon completion of one hundred years of faithfully marking the final approaches to a safe haven in Esquimalt—home port for ships of the Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Navy."

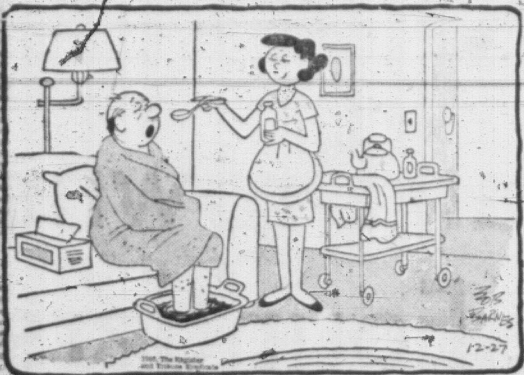

The plaque, measuring two by three feet, was delivered to lighthouse keeper Gordon Odium by Commodore John Deane.

Among those participating in the historic ceremony were Col. Keith Dixon, marine agent in Victoria for the transport department, and Lt.-Cmdr. Harold Shergold, representing Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer, Pacific coast.

The lighthouse is 105 feet tall, assembled of granite blocks almost four feet thick, cut and preassembled in England.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Simplify Cooking Chores With Handy Cookie Dropper

By PENNY SAVER

Cookies in their thousands have been produced and are probably still being prepared by industrious Victoria housewives for happy holiday parties yet to come. These cookies will be ready much faster if you have one of the handy cookie droppers that sell at 75 cents.

Droppers are made of stainless steel and with them you can scoop up batter and drop cookies safely in place, using no spoon and avoiding much finger-cleaning!

If you've been indulging a little too much on rich, starchy foods—and, who hasn't—you'll be interested in taking advantage of "special" on bathroom scales that will save you almost three dollars.

There's nothing like having a "watch dog" in the bathroom when you're being constantly tempted by party goodies! Bathroom scales formerly sold at $12.50 and are now priced at $9.88. They're available in either pink, yellow or white.

How's your supply of glasses? If it's getting low I'd suggest you take a look at sets of eight glasses that have been reduced from $2.50 to $1.75. They are in eight-ounce size and there are two styles from which to choose. Gay and partyish are glasses that are decorated in green and golden leaves. Pastel toned leaves in airy, feathery shapes are another style.

Wearing your hair in a beehive or chignon for that New Year's Eve party? If you are, why not splurge and get yourself one of the delightful pairs of chopsticks that are selling at a reduced price in one store?

They've been reduced from $3.95 to $2.98 a pair and come in a variety of trims. Some are encrusted with large pearls, others glitter with rhinestones or sea shells and many are highlighted with delicate filigree work. These certainly represent glamor on a modest budget!

If you would like to know where Penny shopped today give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Sandwiches, as we know them today, did not appear on the culinary scene until the nineteenth century, when they were created for, and named after, the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, in England.

If you are on a reducing diet and must eat plain, uninteresting food, try perking it up with such low-calorie garnishes as mushrooms, parsley, lemon juice and vinegar. Herbs help immeasurably, too.

DEAR ABBY

For the Birds!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I own a four-family flat. We live in one and rent out the other three. I showed a vacant apartment to a lady who said there were only two adults in her family—her husband and herself. I told her we didn't allow dogs, cats or children under 12.

She liked the apartment and signed a two-year lease. After they moved in, we found out they had 12 parakeets and one parrot. There is squawking and talking from that apartment all day long. Everybody is complaining. Can we do anything about this now?

HOOKED.

DEAR HOOKED: If your lease had a loophole big enough for 13 birds to fly through, you need a lawyer.

TODAY'S RECIPE

DUNKING SAUCE

Men love dunking sauces, and here's one to whet men's appetites and make them appreciate your culinary skill. It goes wonderfully well with anything from humble potato chips to more elegant shrimp, cauliflower buds, or celery sticks. Easy to make too.

One cup mayonnaise, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt, 1 tablespoon anchovy paste, 1/2 teaspoon tabasco, 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 3 tablespoons very finely chopped stuffed olives, 3 tablespoons very finely chopped gherkins, 1 teaspoon very finely chopped onion.

Blend with mayonnaise, mustard, garlic salt, anchovy paste and tabasco. Stir in vinegar. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Serve over lettuce wedge, or seafood salad, or as a cocktail "dunking" sauce for shrimp, cauliflower buds, or potato chips. Yield: 2 cups.

She has been going with a man for four years. He gets her hopes up about marrying her, sets the date and tells her to make the plans, and then he postpones the wedding. This upsets my mother and she gets discouraged and cries a lot. Last week he did this for the fifth time. My mother is so broken up she hasn't been able to go back to work yet.

Do you think it is my place to talk to this man and find out what his intentions are? Mother has no one else to protest her.

"MAN OF THE HOUSE."

DEAR MAN: I'm afraid you'd be wasting your time. When a man postpones a wedding five times, it is fairly obvious that he doesn't want to get married. Talk to your mother and encourage her to seek counsel and guidance.

French Girls Enjoy New Career

PARIS (Reuters).—A pretty young professional hostess named Ingrid received 21 invitations to dinner and two proposals of marriage on the opening day of the Paris motor show this winter.

She free-lances as a public hostess in this comparatively new and growing field, where the prime requisites are friendliness, charm, and an ability to say "no" gracefully. In the last few years, large French industrial companies and big business corporations have realized that there is an ever-increasing need to embellish their inaugurations, receptions and public exhibitions with gracious young women able to play the combined role of receptionist, interpreter and public relations attaché.

Today, Ingrid and nearly 100 other single girls and young married women ranging in age from 16 to 35 are available.

Medicine Field Open To Women

BOSTON (AP) — Medicine, according to the physician daughter of Canada's governor-general, is one of the fields open to women in which they really do have equal opportunities with men.

Dr. Therese Vanier, a girl brought up in Canadian diplomatic circles at home and abroad, chose the field because "I just thought I'd like to do it."

"Medicine is a good career for a woman," said the stately, prematurely-grey doctor, "provided a girl knows what she wants. You've got to realize it's going to take most of your energy for the next five or six years, though."

And marriage and medicine do not mix, she said. "I've known lots of girls who married during their training, but they were the exception. You have got to be tough to do it, both mentally and physically."

Dr. Vanier, now 37, didn't try to mix them. She took a one-way path, entering medical school at the University of Paris. Then she transferred to Cambridge University in Britain, where she was one of the first women ever awarded a degree at a Cambridge convocation. Other women had won degrees but they were not awarded at all-university convocations.

King of Ball

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ian Morsink was crowned King of the Ball at the University of Western Ontario School of Administration's annual dance by Mrs. F. W. P. Jones, wife of the dean.

The winner, in defeating three other candidates in a two-week campaign, based his platform on the superiority of goat's milk over beer. Male candidates were rated secretly by a girl they all dated previous to the ball.

Hardy Outdoor Life, Finest Recipe for Longevity, Says This Sprightly Grandmother

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. Mrs. Emma Alice McCulloch, 73-year-old sharpshooting cabin on Lac-a-Beauce, 65 miles north of Trois-Rivieres, retain youth and vigor is to live a hardy outdoor life, says From early spring until late autumn she lives alone in a cabin on Lac-a-Beauce, 65 miles north of Trois-Rivieres. In the winter she lives in Trois-Rivieres.

During the long summer days she fishes and collects driftwood from the lake. On crisp autumn days she hunts. Her trophies include a bear, shot because he was trampling her flowers, a moose and various types of small game. Talking to a reporter, Mrs. McCulloch told how she shot the bear. She first poured molasses into a pan which she hung on a nearby tree. Then she spread newspapers about the trunk to "give me a back-ground for sighting the critter."

"He made a perfect silhouette," she said, recalling the just after-sundown shooting. "I dropped him with a single shot from the old .35." The hide of the black male bruin now adorns the floor of Mrs. McCulloch's cabin. The meat was given away to friends.

A sturdy woman with a firm, tanned face and shoulder-length white hair, Mrs. McCulloch was born in La Tuque, Que., of Irish-French-Scottish parentage. During the winter she travels to nearby Ste-Anne-de-la-Parade for ice-fishing. She and her late husband, railroad contractor Stuart McCulloch, had five sons and two daughters. One son was killed in the Battle of Britain. Another, Ernie, has won fame as a skier. She has several grandchildren. Asked how she managed to retain her rather amazing vitality, she said: "I guess it's being outdoors so much and keeping busy. I always have something to do. I like to recover driftwood from the lake, hunt and fish, cook and sew." She said she was not afraid living alone in the bush. "I am not afraid of anything except perhaps a rat. I don't like rats." She once killed six in a single afternoon.

Sharpshooting granny, Mrs. Emma Alice McCulloch, credits her youthful vigor to the outdoor life she leads.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What a Difference an Accessory Makes

When buying clothes or accessories your figure as well as the shape of your face should be taken into consideration. Most women know the general rules for buying clothes which make one appear slimmer or fatter, but many do not realize what a difference accessories can make.

For instance, a short or small woman should not carry an over-sized handbag, while a tall or large woman looks strange hanging onto a very small one. The color of the pocketbook also affects the general impression one gives. The tall or large woman can carry a bag of contrasting color, while the small woman should match the bag to the shade of her costume or at least buy a dark-colored one.

The jewelry of the small woman should be dainty. A short woman is overpowered by very heavy earrings or extremely large pins. Beads and pearls and bracelets also should be on the small side. The opposite is true of the tall or large woman. She can wear chunky jewelry and heavy bangles with style. Highly ornamental belts are effective on the slim woman who is at least medium in height. These can dress up the simplest dress but they are not for the overweight or the short femme. Unless you have a slim waistline, never wear a wide belt or one of contrasting color. No belt at all is best if your dress is fitted in at the waist. At least the belt should be narrow and of the same shade. A waistline or belt which dips in the back is slimming.

Extremely ornate shoes are best on the tall or slim gal. Ankle straps are not for the overweight. Extremely high, spiked heels make the overweight woman look awkward. Slightly more moderate heel is more flattering to her.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Clothes to Fit Your Figure and Personality," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 54. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

BEAUTY HINTS

Make a practice of visiting your dentist once every six months. Although you can do a good deal to protect your teeth against decay by careful brushing and proper diet, you will never win the fight without the help of your dentist. Only he can track down cavities while they're still small and no serious threat.

Even the petite mature woman should not stick to her young-girl hairdo. It will look silly. You can't hide the fact that you've grown up. So let your hair style tell the world that you're aware of the fact, too.

If you have a short, plump neck, wear plain, deep round necklines or deep V-shape necklines. They will lengthen the appearance of your neck, while high, round necklines or ruffles and frills will add to its short appearance.

The trick to skillfully applied make-up is to appear completely natural looking after it's on. You can use plenty—just as long as you apply it so that you avoid that "painted" look.

Ethiopia's Coups Fiasco Big Puzzle

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI)—The recently attempted coup against the government of Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie was one of the most puzzling revolutions of this century.

Following the crushing of the rebellion by loyal army forces and the Emperor's triumphant return to Addis Ababa, diplomatic circles in the capital asked these questions:

—What did the revolutionaries expect to gain?

—How could they have dreamed of success against overwhelming odds?

As the Emperor told a news conference in Addis Ababa last week, the leaders of the revolt—almost all of them members of Haile Selassie's own imperial bodyguard battalion—had pledged nothing more than a speed-up of the Emperor's own program for developing their primitive nation.

No Changes

If the new would-be leaders had intended to change Haile Selassie's generally conservative, pro-western policy, there was no clear indication of this during their brief tenure of office.

However, the biggest puzzle was how the bodyguard battalion hoped to emerge victorious without the support of the army's three regular battalions or the air force against the popular Emperor?

The imperial bodyguard leaders and their civilians conspirators apparently thought the coup would win the immediate support of the army and air force. But it was doomed to failure.

Since Haile Selassie's son, Crown Prince Asf Wassan, 44, was never considered by the rebels as more than a figurehead, observers assumed he was acting under duress when he addressed the country as its revolutionary leader Dec. 14.

Impatience

These observers also speculated that the coup's leaders planned to dismiss him eventually—thus ending a monarchy which traced its beginning back 3,000 years to the union between Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

The earlier attempted coups have reflected dissatisfaction among Ethiopia's small, educated class, largely represented by British and American-trained army officers, with the feudal state of the country.

Their taste of modern civilization abroad had made them impatient with the emperor's well-meaning, but slow, efforts to modernize his homeland.

The chain of revolutions across Africa and the Middle East in recent years undoubtedly gave ideas and encouragement to many educated Ethiopians.

What Next?

One of the things the futile rebellion accomplished was to revive the question of what happens when the emperor—now 63—dies?

Diplomatic observers believe that the Crown Prince will be forced to replace his father's one-man rule with a more representative form of government. The present parliament and cabinet are little more than rubber stamps for Haile Selassie.

PRIEST OUSTS BAZAARS, ASKS FOR FLAT 10 PER CENT

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP)—The pastor of a Roman Catholic church here says there'll be no more carnivals, bazaars or raffles to get funds for parish needs.

Instead, church members will be asked to donate 10 per cent of their gross income to the church and church-approved charities, he said Monday.

The priest, Rev. John P. Weigand, said he was taking the step to put an end to the church's "carnival atmosphere."

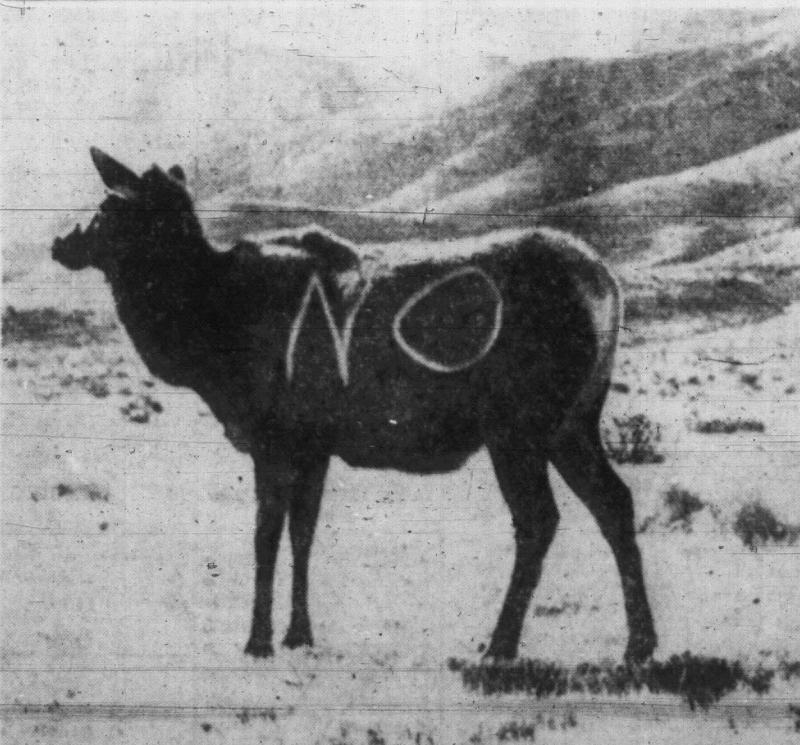

The new system he outlined—

which really isn't new at all—traces its history back to the early days of the church. It is called tithing.

A spokesman for the Jesuit weekly magazine America said the custom of tithing is virtually unknown to Catholic parishes in the United States.

Father Weigand is pastor of St. Joseph's Church of the Palisades. The parish contains 7,200 families and is one of the largest in the state.

Father Weigand said bingo games would be continued. About 95 per cent of the bingo players are not members of his parish.

"NO" MEANS "Don't Shoot" and that's what probably saved the life of pet elk Dulcinea or Sweetheart on the J. C. Hunter ranch at Frijole, Texas. RESULT OF IRON CURTAIN MISSION

$50 Million, 124 Plants Promised Cuba by Reds

HAVANA (UPI)—Major Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Argentine-born economic czar of Cuba, says his recent tour of the Communist world produced promises of at least 124 factories and $50,000,000 in loans from Communist countries.

An account of Guevara's mission published Monday by the pro-government newspaper Revolution said Russia alone plans to build 100 industrial plants in Cuba under the terms of a trade agreement which is expected to make the Kremlin this country's "major economic partner."

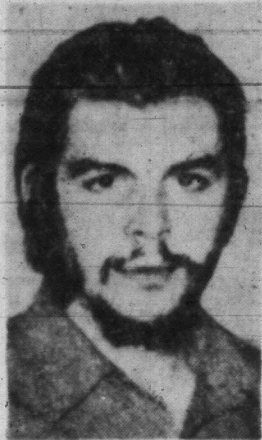

Revolution said Guevara also expects Red China to install 24 factories. Czechoslovakia has promised a $40,000,000 loan, which will be used for still more factories, and East Germany has promised to lend $10,000,000, the official paper said.

SALE OF SUGAR

In addition, Revolution said, Cuba expects to sell at least 4,000,000 tons of sugar to the Communists at prices above the world market if the United States persists in its refusal to buy Castro's sugar at premium prices.

It was uncertain whether the Castroites could expect to pick up much actual cash from their trade with the Reds. The terms of the Soviet trade agreement in particular suggested that it would follow the traditional Russian pattern of virtual barter dealings, with little cash changing hands.

Guevara told Revolution "20

to 40" Russian factories should be completed in the next 12 months. He did not predict a schedule for the completion of the remaining 60 to 80 points.

SIDE PRODUCTS

He said Russia also has promised to:

—Send technical teams to prospect for new oil and iron ore deposits in Cuba.

Supply expanded technical aid in an effort to increase Cuban steel production from the present level of about 40,000 tons a year to 200,000 and perhaps eventually to a million tons.

Meanwhile, it was reported that a Cuban gunboat halted a launch Friday night which was carrying at least four men and a cargo of arms and ammunition to aid anti-Castro guerrillas in Central Cuba.

The captives were taken to Varadero for questioning.

Ottawa To Get 3 Reports

OTTAWA (CP)—Three of five federally-appointed royal commissions studying problems vital to Canada's future are expected to report to the government early in the New Year.

They are the commissions, inquiring into railway transportation and freight rate problems, the Canadian automobile industry, and the economic and other forces affecting Canadian periodical publishers.

About the time these three reports are ready, two other commissions will be at work on government organization and operation and on the health needs of Canadians.

Announcement of the latter was made by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last week. Its composition and terms of reference will be announced later.

This brought to 12 the number of royal commissions named by the Progressive Conservative government since it took office in June, 1957. Seven have made reports and the government has acted on some of the recommendations.

18 Killed In Clash Of Tribesmen

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Eighteen Negroes were killed and an unknown number injured in tribal clashes Monday on the nearby Witwatersrand and in the western end of surrounding Transvaal State, at the Rand Leases mine at Roopeport, about nine miles from here. Six were killed and 10 injured in a squatters camp near Stilfontein, about 60 miles from here.

Fighting broke out at the mine after Pondo and Basuto tribesmen started shouting abuse at each other. Police were rushed to the Negro compound and after several night-stick charges succeeded in quelling the outbreak.

Thieves Kill Priest

TEPIC, Mexico (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest was bludgeoned to death a few minutes after he finished celebrating midnight Christmas Mass. Police blamed the attack on thugs who they said robbed him of alms he had collected at the service.

Damascus is the world's oldest city, having existed as such for more than 4,000 years.

PERSONAL papers and other war reminders of Douglas MacArthur will be left to the city of Norfolk, wedding place of his parents, the Virginia-born general said today.

Boys Repair 3,000 Toys

NANAIMO—More than 3,000 toys were painted and repaired here for Yuletide by the boys of the correctional school at Brennan Lake.

They did the work on behalf of the Salvation Army.—Of the 150 boys in the school, 88 were out on passes for Christmas.

Victoria Daily Times TUESDAY, DEC. 27, 1960 17

New Nepal Gov't Named by King

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—King Mahendra today ended

10 days of rule by royal decree in this high Himalaya kingdom and organized a new government with himself as "chairman" to supplant the regime he smashed Dec. 16.

Chief cabinet post went to Dr. Tulsī Giri, who kept the ministries of defence, foreign affairs, transport, communications, power, irrigation and palace affairs for himself. He moved into the Premier's office.

Mahendra conducted swearing-in ceremonies at his palace, appointing five full ministers and four assistant ministers.

The new government was organized to replace the regime of Premier Bisheshwar Prasad Koirala, an opponent of Giri, who was arrested on the king's orders 10 days ago and held under guard in the palace. The king charged his regime was shot through with fraud and corruption.

A number of other ministers of the Koirala government were seized and the king assumed personal control of the Himalayan kingdom which borders on Red Chinese-held Tibet.

Giri presided at a cabinet meeting immediately after the swearing-in ceremonies.

Giri had been an associate of Koirala but they had fallen out and Giri quit the Koirala cabinet two months ago, after Koirala returned from the U.N. General Assembly summit session in New York.

His duties appeared to approach those of a full premier, although Mahendra appeared to have reserved final decisions to himself as "chairman."

White pine averages 28,000 clean seeds to the pound and black spruce averages 400,000.

Bevel SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln-dried siding is the finest available — a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER

Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white of the narrow sapwood to reddish brown heartwood. It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, paints and enamels excellently, and is superior for gluing. Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY
Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS
Left exposed without paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing grey color having little or no green. It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES
Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly used soft woods — another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance when used as roof decking.

Steve Cochran Stars in Hour Color Special 'The Renegade' at 10

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

AT THE RISK of being declared the chief form of atrocity and being dropped permanently from Santa's mailing list I would say that TV's Christmas dramas are about as treacly a mess of sentimental eye-wash as ever devised by man in the thrall of polka dot fairies. Yet, if one possesses the intestinal fortitude to bear with them you can usually find one a year that does the job it is designed to do, viz. open the eyes and touch the heart.

This year's "one" the annual exception to the rule was Rod Serling's "The Night of the Meek" for his Twilight Zone series. It starred Art Carney as a hard-drinking, softly philosophizing department store Santa and was, in all, touched with the near genius that is Serling's pen.

Or perhaps it is because I try to earn my living with writings that I admired it so much. From the beginning, when one knew that Henry Corwin was bound to be sacked for his drinking proclivities that were scarcely indigenous with his role as Santa, you knew that technically the whole was a fantasy. Yet how was this magic to end? How could Serling bring it down to earth, give it substance and close it off at the gentle little sermon's logical conclusion with a poetic period.

But there is Serling's worth. He let his fantasy end as a fantasy should with Santa Henry Corwin riding through the sky in a sled pulled by his splendid reindeer, sitting aside a jolly female elf.

And yet without even showing if you sensed what had happened to dear, gentle Henry and realized that what he had stood for had somehow rubbed off on men and women left on earth who saw only in Christmas great profits and selfish goals.

I AM NOW commencing to discover what may be wrong with CBS-TV's Witness series.

When they first started I found these plays showing various criminals being taken through their paces by a senate investigating committee most entertaining. Lately, however, they began to pall. Only the faces of the actors involved differed each week. Otherwise it seemed as though the dialogue and situations remained the same. A state of staleness existed.

In the last week or two the network, blaming the series for the poor ratings of some of their other programs the same evening, switched the show to Thursday night at 9. However I doubt if this will do the program much good in this area at least. For now its second half is opposed to the dynamic Untouchables series that is pretty well regarded as unbeatable at the present time.

I am wondering now if Witness wouldn't have been more engrossing if the stories had been written on the flashback principle. That is to say, when the hood was relating his experiences to the committee the committee room would fade out and the moment he was speaking about would be dramatized.

'MOST BALMY' HONOR WON BY CITY AGAIN

Warmest place in Canada for the Christmas holiday? Victoria, of course.
The temperature here on Christmas Day hit a high of 45 while on Boxing Day the maximum was 49.
The rest of Canada froze. On the Prairies, temperatures were in the low thirties—below—and in the east Toronto had a high of only six degrees above freezing.

STRIKERS MARCH IN BRUSSELS

Parade of strikers, led by Socialist leaders, winds along one of Brussels' main streets as the Belgian work week stoppage enters its second week. Overhead Christmas decorations, normally lit at night, have been darkened by strike restrictions. Labor walkout was called by Socialist unions in protest against proposed government austerity measures to offset economic loss resulting from the Congo.

THIRD TEST EXPLODED IN SAHARA

France Step Nearer Huge Nuclear Weapon

PARIS (AP)—France today successfully staged its third nuclear test, exploding a small device that officials hope will clear the way for both tactical and giant thermonuclear weapons.

French scientists also sought to gain information about protection of persons from the effects of radioactive fallout.

The third test, which came about 10 months after the first, was fired at Reggane, deep in the Sahara, from atop a tower. French officials said that the device was of several kilotons in power. A kiloton is equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT.

The first atomic bombs, made by the United States in the Second World War, were of about 20 kilotons. The first French bomb tested Feb. 13, had 70 kilotons power and the second, set off April 1, was described as considerably smaller.

Calling today's test a success, the defence ministry said the device was of small strength. Officials said the fallout presented no danger to nomads in the desert.

RADIOACTIVITY WEAK
Testing points reported that radioactive fallout was noted in an area about 60 miles long and 15 miles wide extending southwestward from the firing range.

With the findings from the test, French scientists hope to perfect small operational tactical bombs and detonating devices for thermonuclear or hydrogen bombs.

The French said many small animals—most of them mice or rats—were placed in the

Revenge Vow By Selassie

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia indicated Monday that five persons arrested as leaders of the brief revolt against him will be executed following trial.

The emperor told a joint session of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies the rebels had been "hunted like wild animals and their blood shed in many places."

"God has taken revenge on these traitors in this manner, and he will take yet more revenge," the emperor added.

Parliament adopted a resolution reaffirming "full confidence" in the emperor's government.

WIRE BRIEFS

5 Inches of Snow

MONTREAL (CP)—Regiments of snow-removal crews worked through the night to clear city streets of more than five inches of snow which fell Monday.

Niagara Jam Breaks

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Moderating temperatures and rain Monday combined to break up an ice jam that formed above the American Falls Saturday and reduced the flow from the cataract to a comparative trickle.

Reds Promise Aid

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk, neutralist Cambodia's chief of state, returned from a three-month round-the-world trip today with promises of aid from Communist countries.

Highways Chief

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy today picked Rex Whitton, 62, chief engineer of the Missouri State highway department, to be federal highway administrator in the new administration.

Taxi-Driver Shot

MONTREAL (CP)—A 34-year-old taxi driver whose body was found in a snow-filled ditch in suburban St. Martin early today was shot and killed with a .38-calibre revolver.

Police Clash With Strikers As Belgian Crisis Worsens

King May Cut Honeymoon

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A crowd of anti-government demonstrators clashed with police today and marched through the centre of Brussels in noisy support of a Socialist-led general strike that crippled Belgium for the seventh straight day.

Socialist party sources estimated that 600,000 persons were on strike.

Heavy police forces moved in quickly to break up a demonstration of Socialist strikes outside party headquarters.

After the scuffle with police, several hundred demonstrators marched through the downtown area, snarling traffic and tossing firecrackers under police horses. Police made no move to break up the parade, but shopkeepers quickly clanged down their steel shutters to guard against any outburst of violence.

Elsewhere in Belgium, strikers clashed with police today at Dalzinne, near Namur, and one policeman was reported injured.

The walkout was called by Socialist unions to protect the austerity program put forth by the government of Catholic Social Christian Premier Gaston Eyskens to offset losses suffered by Belgium as a result of the Congo crisis.

All Key Public Services Crippled

It has crippled transport, utility, postal and other key public services throughout the nation.

Some 400 Socialist mayors in the French-speaking Walloon region of the country were reported to have rejected instructions by the interior ministry to report all municipal employees who have joined the strike.

The mayors (burgomasters) issued communiques scornfully denouncing the interior ministry orders as forcing them into "degrading" denunciations of their municipal staffs.

PRINCESS BAHAMAS REGENT?

LONDON (CP)—The Associated Press reported today that a close friend of the Royal Family said the Queen is considering appointing Princess Margaret governor of the Bahamas.

"Friends of the Royal Family say the Queen has been feeling out government and private individuals on the Bahamas appointment," the AP said. "No opposition has been reported and some highly placed persons are said to be enthusiastically in favor of the appointment."

These friends noted that Anthony Armstrong-Jones has been out of work for the last seven months since his marriage to Margaret.

The appointment of a member of the Royal Family as a governor-general would not set a precedent. The Duke of Windsor was governor of the Bahamas from 1946 to 1945.

AIRLINES ACCUSED

Deadly Fuel Used in Jets

2 IN B.C.

The new fuel is called JP-4 and is a mixture of gasoline and kerosene. It is used by a growing number of airlines whose jet airliners formerly used the less-expensive kerosene.

By The Canadian Press

Christmas holiday fatalities across Canada today reached 69 as provinces completed their count after the three-day festive weekend.

Ontario led the death toll with 31 fatal accidents, 22 of them on the highways. Quebec was next with 19 deaths, 13 of them due to traffic accidents.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday local time to midnight Monday showed that 49 Canadians died in traffic accidents—three below the figure predicted by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

During the three-day Christmas holiday last year, 81 persons died accidentally, 65 in traffic mishaps.

B.C. had two deaths, both on Vancouver Island. (See stories page 13.)

"It is patently clear that the desire to use JP-4 is based on money making."

He made the charge in a letter to Sir William Hildred, director-general of the International Air Transport Association which represents the major airlines.

Brabazon also made public an earlier letter from Hildred accusing him of putting dangerous statements before "emotional millions."

INSTANT IGNITION

The argument started with a recent television program in which Brabazon made experiments to demonstrate that JP-4 ignites instantly while kerosene

Sub Hunted Near Fiji

SUVA, Fiji (UPI)—New Zealand Air Force planes swept the waters north of this British island around the clock today, seeking some trace of the unidentified submarine sighted 25 miles to the northeast on Christmas Eve.

Other New Zealand planes were "shadowing" the Russian survey ship Shokalskiy, which was close to the submarine when it was sighted and may have been on the way to a rendezvous with it.

Times Fund for USC Nears $8,000 Mark

The Times "Children of India" Christmas appeal will close Wednesday.

With the fund now well past the $7,000 mark, it is hoped that by New Year's Eve a sum in excess of $8,000 may be transferred to the UnHarian Services Committee in Ottawa for inclusion in its 1960 budget.

Due to the holiday break, acknowledgment lists have not been completed. They will be brought up to date in Wednesday's paper, with a final list on Thursday.

Last-minute donations will be accepted either by hand at the Broad Street and Douglas Street offices, or in the mail.

In a special Christmas message, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of the USC, expressed her thanks to Victorians.

"Once again I thank you for your wonderful response to this appeal," she said. "It will be my duty now to see this money is spent where it will do the most good in helping

FISHERMEN ADRIFT FOR 69 DAYS

'All We Did Was Pray and Bail'

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters)—Five of the luckiest fishermen in the world told today how they drifted on the South China Sea for 69 lonely, hungry days in a leaking boat that sank shortly after their rescue.

The five Formosans, rescued December 1 by Vietnamese fishermen, lost one of their party, 16-year-old Tsu Suan Chuey.

Shie Fu Chien, 69, said the boat's engine broke down on September 23.

"We could not use the sail because of a stiff wind against us, so we were driven off Taiwan Island (Formosa)."

at the bottom and we took turns bailing the water out."

"During our 69 days on the sea, we saw only one ship, a freighter. But since the freighter seemed not to notice us we jumped into the sea and swam toward her about half a mile away. It was in vain. We couldn't move fast enough to cross her course. So, we swam back to our boat. It was then that our friend Tsu became exhausted and drowned."

"The rest of us could do nothing but pray—and bail."

Shie said that during the last 20 days at sea, "we were short of food, provisions and firewood."

"We ate the fish we caught and seaweed," he said. "We collected rainwater."

Chen Pi, 37, said that by December 1 "our boat was three-quarters full of water—it was hopeless."

"Suddenly," he added, "we

Blanketed in Affection

IN the exhausted quiet of post-Boxing Day, I have been looking at a beautifully knit pullover sweater. It is one of my prize possessions from Christmas, but it presents a problem.

The young lady who made the garment, so very far away in miles and so very close in affection, has endowed me with new stature. There has been no stinting of material in the sweater. There has been no shirking of extra stitches.

Stott

I picture her as she worked busily with her needles and I paint in a sentimental touch. Each stitch is graced with love. And I'm forced to the reluctant conclusion that you can have too much of even that.

For years we've had a family joke about my slipping chest. They don't call me Pearshape, a name reserved in our house for a person of political eminence. But they are not above suggesting that I might have played Santa Claus without using any pillows for stuffing.

Still, the adipose accretion of time has left me inadequately upholstered for the new pullover I have acquired. It hangs. It does not fit.

Donned before the full-length mirror in the hall, it makes me think of the man I might have been. The shoulders stretch away from the neckline like a navy officer's greatcoat. It is difficult to build into a pull-over's shoulders the padding which gives so many narrow-chested sailors that topcoated athletic look.

Nor is it possible, in this type of sweater, to effect the London drape look so effective a few years ago in a worsted jacket. There just isn't enough width to me to justify the garment.

The lady in our house suggested that she could sew it in at the sides, which seemed promising for a moment or two. But it wouldn't work. You can't sew in shoulders also. Even if you could, there remains the small problem of length.

Having enjoyed the brisk winter of an English April, I have a precise appreciation for clothing that keeps the kidneys warm. At the same time, I have not yet achieved that easy acceptance of style which might encourage me to sit down on the back half of the pullover I'm wearing.

I might, of course, put it on outside my jacket, only my yen for unconventionality hasn't yet extended that far.

It isn't difficult, though it is flattering, to understand how the error in size occurred. It is flattering because it implies on the young lady's part the belief that her father is a much bigger man than, in fact, he is.

Also, she has seen him reacting over the years to a complex established in him as a small boy. In his childhood days he was invariably giving clothes "to grow to." That was par in an age when careful parents had to assure themselves that money spent to cover the young wouldn't be wasted by too rapid expansion of the youngster in the physically formative stage.

Because garments bought for him were invariably too big when new, he naturally swung the other way when he started earning and buying his own. The consequence was inevitable. As an adult, until his wife took him in hand, he favored skin-tight fittings.

A knowledgeable daughter could see the fault in this reaction. Hence her inclination to favor larger sizes for her parent.

So I gaze at my beautifully knit blue pullover, fingering the soft wool, appreciating as only a father can the thought that went into its construction, and wondering what can be done about it without hurting the maker's feelings.

They tell me there is a cleaning establishment in town which does a remarkable job of shrinking sweaters. Therein lies hope.

Otherwise I shall sing softly and with deep pathos that fine old ballad, "Sam, you made the pants too long," with suitable adaptations to the garment in question.

AGONY FOLLOWS SHOCK

By EDDY GILMORE

BRUSSELS (AP) — In a way, Belgium today is like a man who's been smashed up in a car accident.

The numbing shock of The Congo disaster delayed the arrival of the full weight of pain. But the agony of losing an empire has finally hit the nerve centre, and the patient is writhing.

Waves of crippling strikes have struck a people already dazed, embittered and bleeding from The Congo's recent record of rape and murder and from the colossal loss of property and investment in that former colony.

The threat to order in this normally prosperous little country is so serious that Premier Gaston Eyskens says "the very existence of our institutions" is threatened.

AGAINST CUSHION

The chorus of complaint is against the government's austerity plan, cuts in social services and increase in taxes, to cushion the shock of losing Congo revenue.

Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny is a sort of composite picture of a great many earnest, conscientious but troubled Belgians.

"The mess in The Congo," he said in an interview, "it's not just a Belgian problem. It's well, it's the responsibility, perhaps first of all, of the United States, for the United States is the great leader of the West."

"Something is stirring in Leopoldville and I feel it's stirring for the better," he said. "The young commissioners there, they are clever young men. They are trying to do their best."

Wigny was asked what went wrong after Belgium gave The Congo independence last summer.

"Well, we pulled out too quickly," he said. "We see that now. But there were many considerations, you know. We had plans to build on the base of a pyramid. But decisions were made elsewhere. In France, in England both granting independence to African Colonies."

A clerk in a small business was bitter:

"Too many of our people went down there for money, for money and nothing else. They were like little emperors and they had no feeling for the people, only for themselves. Who can be sympathetic with them?"

"Left turn" has had an unsavory flavor since our first reference to it here a month ago.

Points of view on this subject are possibly more varied than on any other driving problem, to judge from letters and casual remarks received meanwhile.

Part of the blame for this onslaught of opinion must be borne by "Tips" for giving a slightly misleading impression of drivers' rights at an intersection where a left-turning driver is confronted by oncoming through traffic. (See cut.)

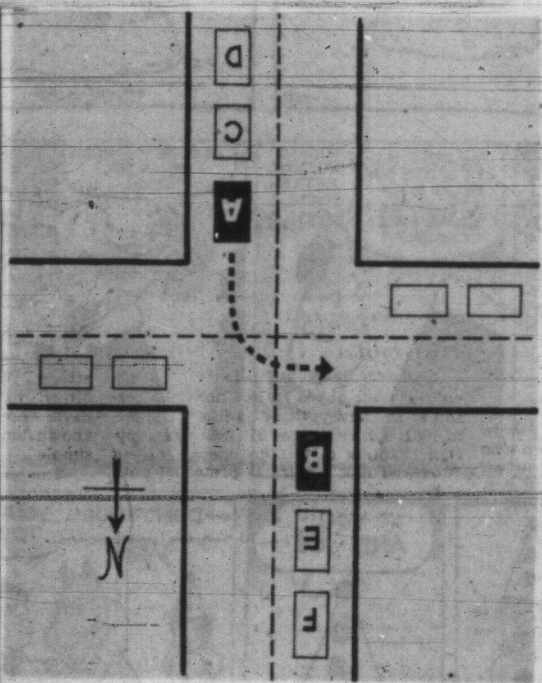

"Tips" said car "A," signalling his turn, should move slowly into the intersection, allowing "B" and one or two others to get clear.

"It is then the duty of subsequent cars headed south to allow "A" to make his turn if it can be done in safety. For once "A" is into the intersection and signalling his left turn, he has the right-of-way over traffic approaching the intersection," we said.

That was not intended to convey the idea that "A" could forge through regardless of the oncoming tide. He must still wait until he can turn in reasonable safety.

Once he has begun this turn, taking every precaution, he may then expect to get clear of the intersection without difficulty, provided he yields to pedestrians who may happen to be in the west crosswalk.

ure apparently recognized in Vancouver.

By this "courtesy custom," "A" and "C," for example, are allowed by oncoming traffic to make their turns, clearing the lane behind them for straight through traffic, unless there are others wishing to turn left in that lane.

The driver suggests that otherwise, the straight through stream once started does not stop, blocking the other lane of traffic completely.

Drive safely over the the holiday and send your suggestions to Times "Traffic Trouble Tips."

'Shake Up U.S. Agencies' Report Cites Ike, Truman

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy Monday night released a report that says federal regulatory agencies are afflicted with outside pressure, political appointees and a lack of concern by presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

The report, which recommends a massive shake-up and reorganization of the agencies, is the product of James M. Landis, former Harvard law school dean and former member or chairman of several of the agencies involved.

It speaks of "Alice-in-Wonderland procedures" of drifting and stalling, of costly delays in getting the work done.

Kennedy is expected to use it as the basis for action and recommendations of his own. Legislation will be required.

The report brings Truman and Eisenhower in unmistakably but not by name.

It says of regulatory agencies in general that for the last decade "the executive appears to have had no real concern with their operation." A decade covers most of Eisenhower's administration and two years of Truman's, as the agencies themselves.

Kennedy appraised the report in a one sentence statement.

"This is a most important and impressive analysis of the regulatory agencies which deserves the attention of the second. They are children of prominent swimming coach James McCague.

Three other competitors braved the 44-degree water, temperature and 47-degree air temperature in the 42nd annual Christmas swim sponsored by Victoria Amateur Swimming Club.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Greater Victoria's two main hospitals had six children born Christmas Day, one in St. Joseph's and the rest in Royal Jubilee.

An appeal for increased use of the federal government's winter work assistance will be heard by city council at its next meeting. Victoria Labor Council dispatched a resolution urging aldermen "to step up the program of public works" with Ottawa's assistance in order to help reduce unemployment this winter.

Pussywillow was seen in full bud on the Durrance Road on Monday, which naturalists say is exceptionally early.

Growing beside it was a bush of the bird cherry whose leaves were bursting through the waxed bud.

Defeated alderman candidate Elgin Neish today demanded city council reform the ballot counting procedures. In a brief to council, he criticized the need for a judicial recount in the Dec. 8 election and alleged "there appears to be no attempt to conform to the requirements for balloting and tallying laid down in the Municipal Act."

The Revelstoke Board of Trade and the Nakusp Chamber of Commerce, backed by other groups, have arranged a meeting with Lands and Forests Minister Williston at Victoria, Wednesday, to discuss the Columbia River development plans.

Student Killed In Car

End-Over-End Highway Plunge

An 18-year-old University of British Columbia student, Barry Bourque of Ladysmith, was killed Monday night when a car in which he was a passenger rolled over on the highway north of Ladysmith.

The car was driven by Euan Cameron, 30, of Ladysmith, police reported.

The victim's sister, Jean, 21, was treated in Ladysmith hospital for minor injuries.

The accident happened at 7:45 p.m. at the junction of Code Road and Brenton-Page Road, three miles north of the community.

ON RIGHT SIDE

RCMP from Ladysmith were on the scene within five minutes. The victim was sitting on the right-hand side in the front seat, his sister in the middle.

Police said it was foggy at the time of the accident and apparently the driver misjudged the corner.

The car was going north when it hit the ditch on the right side of the road and rolled end-over-end.

Girl Injured As Six Flee House Blaze

Six tenants were evacuated from a rooming house at 731 Market Street early Christmas morning when fire broke out on the top floor.

A 16-year-old girl, Frances V. Fuller, suffered a badly cut hand while escaping through a window in the smoke-filled house.

She was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

USED FIRE ESCAPE

The city fire department said the fire was discovered shortly after 4 a.m., Sunday.

It broke out at the entrance of an upstairs hallway and blocked escape through the front door. Tenants had to use the fire escape.

Firemen in a few minutes had the fire under control.

The program covered the steps and dances learned so far by the beginners who have been taking lessons since September.

Sleeping Man Drowns When Boat Founders

Survived Fire, Last February

Dead is Clyde Spence, who lived alone in his old 26-foot boat "Nellie" for some three years to stretch out his pension.

The boat was last seen at its moorings at 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The sinking was discovered at 12:55 p.m. Sunday when the hulk was spotted in 30 feet of water.

Man Arrested As Police Use Walkie-Talkies

Smash-and-Grab At Drug Store

A man was arrested by Saanich police early this morning only four hours after a smash-and-grab burglary at the Shelbourne Plaza drug store.

He will be charged in Saanich police court Wednesday.

It is the second time within four months the store has been broken into. On Sept. 24, thieves smashed a hole through the roof of the store and escaped with drugs and money.

Owner of the store is Martin Doan.

Police said the thief smashed the glass window of the store's door at 9:30 p.m. Monday, and in full view of passersby started to load his gunny sack with merchandise.

LEAVES TRAIL

He escaped just before police arrived, leaving behind a trail of cigarette packages.

An hour later police found the stolen goods stored in a shed in a field off Stamboul Street.

Police for the first time used walkie-talkies leading up to the arrest.

Warm Hearts Melt Ice-Bound Labrador

The temperature drops to 45 below but there are plenty of warm hearts in Labrador says Nurse Mary Taylor of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"Most of the people there are fishermen and they lead a tough, hard life. Yet the majority are kindly, good-natured men who help each other. And their families are much the same."

Nurse Taylor is on leave from the Grenfell Mission, which operates a far-flung nursing service across the snowy wastes of Labrador.

BIG CHANGE

"Working in a big city hospital is a tremendous change from a snow-bound mission station," Nurse Taylor said. "The Royal Jubilee is a highly efficient organization and I hope to gain experience here which will be useful to the mission in Labrador."

Nurse Taylor was born and raised in Malvern, Worcestershire, England—a lovely old town but too sleepy for her.

ADVENTUROUS

"I always wanted to work in a cold rigorous climate where life is more of an adventure," she said, "and Labrador is a great place for adventure and experience."

Nurse Taylor revealed that there are no newspapers and no TV in Labrador.

Nurse Taylor will be working at the Royal Jubilee Hospital until around the middle of February. Then she will return once more to the lonely wastes of Labrador—land of fish and furs.

30,000 WORKERS

Labrador's chief industry, she says, is cod fishing. Between May and October cod of the fattest and firmest is caught around the Labrador coast and as many as 30,000 people are employed in the industry.

Labrador's nursing missions are operated by the International Grenfell Association and there are numerous radio transmitters whereby one mission can communicate with another.

"It is a rugged country but very appealing to those who like adventure," Nurse Taylor says.

Bird Brigade May Score Record Count

Victoria Natural History Society today was counting on a record bird count for Canada again after 35 members spotted 114 species between dawn and dusk Monday.

"That beats the record for Canada set at 106 last year by our society and we expect it will be a record this year unless the Vancouver group is really lucky," said David Stirling, a co-chairman of the Boxing Day counting project.

Ornithological groups throughout North America make the annual bird count during the Christmas week because bird populations are relatively stable during the period.

This year's count probably was higher because of the very mild weather we've had.

The society's spotters were spread out in 12 groups covering a 15-mile radius from Island View Beach on the north to Witty's Lagoon on the south.

Last year, a total of some 30,000 birds were counted in the search for different species and this figure is expected to be duplicated when tabulations are completed for Monday's count, Mr. Stirling said.

THAT ALWAYS GETS YOUR DAY OFF TO A GOOD START...

FISHERMEN ADRIFT FOR 69 DAYS

All We Did Was Pray and Bail

SAIGON, South Viet Nam
(Reuters) — Five of the luckiest fishermen in the world told today how they drifted on the South China Sea for 69 lonely, hungry days in a leaking boat that sank shortly after their rescue.The five Formosans, rescued December 1 by Vietnamese fishermen, lost one of their party, 16-year-old Tsu Suan Chuey.Shie Fu Chien, 69, said the boat's engine broke down on September 23.

"We could not use the sail because of a stiff wind against us, so we were driven off Taiwan Island (Formosa)."Then a typhoon hit us and the rough sea damaged our boat. She had a pretty big hole at the bottom and we took turns bailing the water out."During our 69 days on the sea, we saw only one ship, a freighter. But since the freighter seemed not to notice us we jumped into the sea and swam toward her about half a mile away. It was in vain. We couldn't move fast enough to cross her course. So, we swam back to our boat. It wasthen that our friend Tsu became exhausted and drowned."The rest of us could do nothing but pray—and bail."Shie said that during the last 20 days at sea, "we were short of food, provisions and firewood.""We ate the fish we caught and seaweed," he said. "We collected rainwater."

Chen Pi, 57, said that by December 1 "our boat was three-quarters full of water—it was hopeless.""Suddenly," he added, "we saw about 20 sailing boats coming in our direction. We said 'By a miracle, God has saved us.'"

"One of us climbed to the top of the mast and, all of us started yelling. Finally, one fishing boat came to us and we were rescued by the Vietnamese fishermen."Our boat slowly disappeared in the sea."

STRIKERS MARCH IN BRUSSELS

Parade of strikers, led by Socialist leaders, winds along one of Brussels' main streets as the Belgian work week stoppage enters its second week. Overhead Christmas decorations, normally lit at night,have been darkened by strike restrictions. Labor walkout was called by Socialist unions in protest against proposed government austerity measures

France Step Nearer
Huge Nuclear WeaponPARIS (AP)—France today successfully staged its third nuclear test, exploding a small device that officials hope will clear the way for both tactical and giant thermonuclear weapons.French scientists also sought to gain information about protection of persons from the effects of radioactive fallout.The third test, which came about 10 months after the first, was fired at Reggane, deep in the Sahara, from atop a tower. French officials said that the device was of several kilotons in power. A kiloton is equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT.The first atomic bombs, made by the United States in the Second World War, were of about 20 kilotons. The first French bomb tested Feb. 13, had 70 kilotons power and the second, set off April 1, was described as considerably smaller.Calling today's test a success, the defence ministry said the device was of small strength. Officials said the fallout presented no danger to nomads in the desert.Testing points reported that radioactive fallout was noted in an area about 60 miles long and 15 miles wide extending southwestward from the firing range.

Christmas holiday fatalities across Canada today reached 69 as provinces completed their count after the three-day festive weekend.Ontario led the death toll with 31 fatal accidents, 22 of them on the highways. Quebec was next with 19 deaths, 13 of them due to traffic accidents.A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday local time to midnight Monday showed that 49 Canadians died in traffic accidents—three below the
dian Highway Safety Council.During the three-day Christmas holiday last year, 81 persons died accidentally, 65 in traffic mishaps.B.C. had two deaths, both on Vancouver Island. (See

With StrikersBRUSSELS (UPI)—A crowd of anti-government demonstrators clashed with police today and marched through the centre of Brussels in noisy support of a Socialist-led general strike that crippled Belgium for the seventh straight day.Socialist party sources estimated that 600,000 persons were on strike.(In Seville, Spain, it was reported that King Bau-douin and Queen Fabiola may cut short their Spanish honeymoon and fly back to Brussels Thursday in an attempt to deal with the worsening strike situation.)Heavy police forces moved in quickly to break up a demonstration of Socialist strikes outside party headquarters.After the scuffle with police, several hundred demonstrators marched through the downtown area, snarling traffic and tossing firecrackers under police horses. Police made no move to break up the parade, but shopkeepers quickly clanged down their steel shutters to guardagainst any outburst of violence.Elsewhere in Belgium, strikers clashed with police today at Dalzinne, near Namur, and one policeman was reported injured.The walkout was called by Socialist unions to protest the austerity program put forth by the government of Catholic Socialist Christian Premier Gaston Eyskens to offset losses suffered by Belgium as a result of the Congo crisis.

All Key Public Services Crippled

It has crippled transport, utility, postal and other key public services throughout the nation.Some 400 Socialist mayors in the French-speaking Walloon region of the country were reported to have rejected instructions by the interior ministry to report all municipal employees who have joined the strike.The mayors (burgomasters) issued communiques scornfully denouncing the interior ministry orders as forcing them into "degrading" denunciations of their municipal staffs.The Socialist Christian Party and trade unions supporting it have attacked the Socialist-led walkout as "political" and have resisted calls to join in the strike movement.Formerly called the Catholic Party, the Socialist Christians are in a government coalition with the Liberals. The party's basically Roman Catholic membership ranges in viewpoint from leftists to conservatives but the middle-of-theroaders predominate.Police dispersed a strike mob that was blocking traffic outside Socialist headquarters after a brief scuffle that produced no reported casualties.The strikers shouted "Down with (Premier Gaston) Eys-kens!" and other anti-government slogans as the police cleared the street.Earlier, the strikers had manhandled the conductor of a streetcar that tried to pass their roadblock and pulled its trolley off the overhead power wire.The government has called out regular troops and reservists in an effort to maintain essential services during the strike, which was called to protest the "austerity" program devised by the government to offset the nation's loss of revenues from the Congo.Sub Hunted

land Air Force planes swept the waters north of this British island around the clock today, seeking some trace of the unidentified submarine sighted 25 miles to the northeast on Christmas Eve.Other New Zealand planes were "shadowing" the Russian survey ship Shokalskiy, which was close to the submarine when it was sighted and may have been on the way to a rendezvous with it.

AIRLINES ACCUSED

Deadly Fuel
'Hushed Up'LONDON (AP)—Lord Brabazon of Tara, a world authority on aviation safety, Monday accused major airlines of hushing up their use of a highly explosive jet fuel.The new fuel is called JP-4 and is a mixture of gasoline and kerosene. It is used by a growing number of airlines whose jet airliners formerly used the less-explosive kerosene.Brabazon, 76-year-old chairman of the British Air Registration Board, who was decorated by Queen Elizabeth in 1953 for his service to civil aviation, said:"It is patently clear that the desire to use JP-4 is based on money making."He made the charge in a letter to Sir William Hildred, director-general of the International Air Transport Association, which represents the major airlines.Brabazon also made public an earlier letter from Hildredaccusing him of putting dangerous statements before "emotional millions."The argument started with a recent television program in which Brabazon made experiments to demonstrate that JP-4 ignites instantly while kerosene does not.

PRIEST OUSTS BAZAARS, ASKS FOR FLAT 10 PER CENT

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP)—The pastor of a Roman Catholic church here says there'll be no more carnivals, bazaars or raffles to get funds for parish needs.

Instead, church members will be asked to donate 10 per cent of their gross income to the church and church-approved charities, he said Monday.

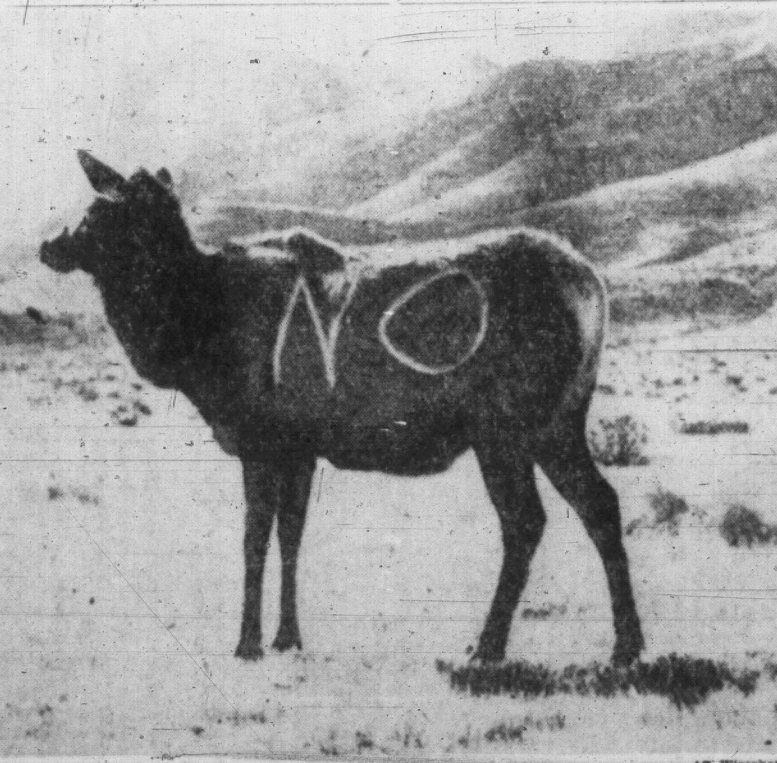

The priest, Rev. John P. Weigand, said he was taking the step to put an end to the church's "carnival atmosphere."

The new system he outlined—

which really isn't new at all—traces its history back to the early days of the church. It is called tithing.

A spokesman for the Jesuit weekly magazine America said the custom of tithing is virtually unknown to Catholic parishes in the United States.

Father Weigand is pastor of St. Joseph's Church of the Palisades. The parish contains 7,200 families and is one of the largest in the state. Father Weigand said bingo games would be continued. About 95 per cent of the bingo players are not members of his parish.

"NO" MEANS "Don't Shoot" and that's what probably saved the life of pet elk Duicinea or Sweetheart on the J. C. Hunter ranch at Frijole, Texas. Since she is free to mingle with wild elk the "No" signs were painted on her sides during a recent elk hunt on the ranch. She survived while nine of her relatives fell to hunters' bullets.

RESULT OF IRON CURTAIN MISSION

$50 Million, 124 Plants Promised Cuba by Reds

HAVANA (UPI)—Major Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Argentine-born economic czar of Cuba, says his recent tour of the Communist world produced promises of at least 124 factories and $50,000,000 in loans from Communist countries.

An account of Guevara's mission published Monday by the pro-government newspaper Revolution said Russia alone plans to build 100 industrial plants in Cuba under the terms of a trade agreement which is expected to make the Kremlin this country's "major economic partner."

Revolution said Guevara also expects Red China to install 24 factories. Czechoslovakia has promised a $40,000,000 loan, which will be used for still more factories, and East Germany has promised to lend $10,000,000, the official paper said.

SALE OF SUGAR

In addition, Revolution said, Cuba expects to sell at least 4,000,000 tons of sugar to the Communists at prices above the world market if the United States persists in its refusal to buy Castro's sugar at premium prices.

It was uncertain whether the Castroites could expect to pick up much actual cash from their trade with the Reds. The terms of the Soviet trade agreement in particular suggested that it would follow the traditional Russian pattern of virtual barter dealings, with little cash changing hands.

Guevara told Revolution "20 to 40" Russian factories should be completed in the next 12 months. He did not predict a schedule for the completion of the remaining 60 to 80 plants.

SIDE PRODUCTS

He said Russia also has promised to:

—Send technical teams to prospect for new oil and iron ore deposits in Cuba.

—Supply expanded technical aid in an effort to increase Cuban steel production from the present level of about 40,000 tons a year to 200,000 and perhaps eventually to a million tons.

Meanwhile, it was reported that a Cuban gunboat halted a launch Friday night which was carrying at least four men and a cargo of arms and ammunition to aid anti-Castro guerrillas in Central Cuba.

The captives were taken to Varadero for questioning.

Ottawa To Get 3 Reports

OTTAWA (CP)—Three of five federally-appointed royal commissions studying problems vital to Canada's future are expected to report to the government early in the New Year.

They are the commissions inquiring into railway transportation and freight rate problems, the Canadian automobile industry, and the economic and other forces affecting Canadian periodical publishers.

About the time these three reports are ready, two other commissions will be at work on government organization and operation and on the health needs of Canadians.

Announcement of the latter was made by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last week. Its composition and terms of reference will be announced later.

This brought to 12 the number of royal commissions named by the Progressive Conservative government since it took office in June, 1957. Seven have made reports and the government has acted on some of the recommendations.

18 Killed In Clash Of Tribesmen

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Eighteen Negroes were killed and an unknown number injured in tribal clashes Monday on the nearby Witwatersrand and in the western end of surrounding Transvaal State.

Fighting broke out at the mine after Pondo and Basuto tribesmen started shouting abuse at each other. Police were rushed to the Negro compound and after several night-stick charges succeeded in quelling the outbreak.

Thieves Kill Priest

TEPEC, Mexico (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest was bludgeoned to death a few minutes after he finished celebrating midnight Christmas Mass. Police blamed the attack on thugs who they said robbed him of alms he had collected at the service.

New Nepal Gov't Named by King

KATMANDU—Nepal (UPI)—King Mahendra today ended 10 days of rule by royal decree in this high Himalaya kingdom and organized a new government with himself as "chairman" to supplant the regime he smashed Dec. 16.

Chief cabinet post went to Dr. Tulsī Giri, who kept the ministries of defence, foreign affairs, transport, communications, power, irrigation and palace affairs for himself. He moved into the Premier's office.

Mahendra conducted swearing-in ceremonies at his palace, appointing five full ministers and four assistant ministers.

A number of other ministers of the Koirala government were seized and the king assumed personal control of the Himalayan kingdom which borders on Red Chinese-held Tibet.

Giri presided at a cabinet meeting immediately after the swearing-in ceremonies.

Giri had been an associate of Koirala but they had fallen out and Giri quit the Koirala cabinet two months ago, after Koirala returned from the U.N. General Assembly summit session in New York.

His duties appeared to approach those of a full premier, although Mahendra appeared to have reserved final decisions to himself as "chairman."
